Solution proposed for school deficit

by Arlene Surprenant
A solution has been proposed to Wilmington's recent school budget crisis.

Provided all concerned parties agree, it is expected the town's free cash will be certified by November 14 and used to pay vendors' bills totaling $121,775. The remaining $37,621 owed to teachers has already been incorporated into the tax rate, on advice from the state Department of Revenue.

At the conclusion of the 1988 fiscal year, the school department was faced with an embarrassing shortfall totalling $159,396. Since then, the Wilmington School Committee, the finance committee, the town accountant, and others have been working to reach both short and long term solutions to the problem.

The solution was proposed jointly by Selectmen Chairman Jim Stewart and Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski at Monday's selectmen's meeting. In explaining the "reasonable and attractive" proposal, Stewart said "the one thing we don't want to do is eliminate or lessen the quality of education." He added that his proposal will provide an alternative to a plan to transfer funds from the current tight budget and will hopefully reassure parents that quality education is still a priority in Wilmington.

Under the terms of the proposal, the cash will be certified before November 14, if possible. A nine-tenths vote will still be needed at November's special town meeting to use free cash, however, since the town is dealing with unpaid bills.

A favorable vote will avoid any cuts to the FY '89 school budget. It will also reduce funds for the total town budget in FY'90, according to Stewart. Defeat of the proposal, added Stapczynski, would increase the price of future bids, threaten the town's AA bond rating, and cause the town to lose credibility.

The long term solution has already been proposed in the past by the school's Certified Public Accountant, John Deislinger.

Stewart agreed with Deislinger's suggestion to combine the town and school accounting systems. Stewart said in FY'89, the town accountant would be linked to the school department's financial information system via a terminal in his office. Stewart explained this in no way means the town accountant is responsible for the school budget. School officials would still retain control of their own budget, he said. It does, however, provide a form of checks and balances to assure such crises will not recur.

Residents would have to cast a favorable vote at the annual town meeting in April to incorporate the school's financial system into the town's.

Selectmen voted unanimously to support the proposal. Chairmen of both the school committee and fincom are expected to bring up the proposal for similar votes of their boards.

Stewart maintained this was a move in the right direction. He said it was time to put "personality issues behind us" and do what's best in order not to jeopardize quality education.

Wilmington may adopt parking stickers

A move to reserve railroad parking facilities for Wilmington residents was begun Monday as selectmen voted unanimously to have the town manager explore the feasibility of a sticker parking program.

The action was initiated by Chairman Jim Stewart. Stewart told his board as surrounding towns begin to tighten up their parking regulations, out of town commuters are drifting to Wilmington and filling up town lots. This, he added, was creating problems for Wilmington commuters.

CDAG funding still undecided

by Arlene Surprenant
The fate of a CDAG grant to help reduce infrastructure costs for Shawsheen River Estates is still up in the air following a last ditch effort by neighbors to be heard.

Though Wilmington selectmen said Monday there was still room to negotiate some concessions if the $500,000 CDAG funds are awarded by the state, project proponents Jay Tighe and John Bresnahan said that wasn't possible. Bresnahan startled selectmen when he maintained the town already concluded its negotiations in asking for such things as new water pipes, a top quality pumping station, and a sewer line brought in from Grove Avenue.

Selectmen Chairman Jim Stewart said nothing had yet been negotiated by his board, which retains control over CDAG funds. Stewart added he had made it "very clear" in June there would be "trade-offs" later, even though those trade-offs may not center on issues like access, which was already addressed in the comprehensive permit decision.

The misunderstanding followed on the heels of revelations at a prior meeting that showed Tighe's funding was tied to receipt of the CDAG grant and the developer's financial picture had changed. Because selectmen were not kept informed of the changes, they elected to hold up their endorsement of the grant until they were assured Tighe could finance the project.

Bresnahan told selectmen proponents don't intend to use "one dime" of bank funds for the project.

"Our intention is not to use any construction financing at all," he said, adding that they could also fund the project without CDAG monies. Bresnahan explained that proponents have commitments for seven million dollars, even though the maximum estimated loan requirement for the project is six million. He said he would be glad to divulge further financial information to "responsible" town officials.

Stewart said if Bresnahan doesn't need the CDAG grant, proponents should take half of it and allow the town to negotiate concessions for neighbors with the remainder.

"Half a pie's better than none," he said.

Tighe explained because of potential problems with ledge on Hopkins Street and the fact that he had been "dictated to" by water and sewer commissioners, who are looking out for the town's interest, he may need the funds at a later date. He reminded Stewart that unless selectmen support the grant, the town could lose control over local preference.

Selectmen said before a decision can be reached on further support, they would need to clear up any misunderstandings and review such things as a cash flow chart, a phasing plan for the project, and the final application already sent to the Massachusetts Housing Finance Agency.

Both officials and neighbors asked a number of questions throughout the lengthy session.

Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski raised a "what if" situation regarding units which may go unfilled because of a glut in the market. He was told eight units a month would be built then sold immediately during the projected three year construction period. If units don't sell, said Bresnahan, construction would stop until the market improves. Neighbors and at least one selectman, Dan Ballou, expressed dismay with the news, saying they didn't favor a drawn out project.

Reed Street resident Steve Dorrance asked whether proponents would finish all site and infrastructure work first, given the disruption to the neighborhood if the construction period is prolonged. Bresnahan replied it was his intention to phase all work, though Stewart said the town may require something different as far as phasing and bonding is concerned.

Carole Hamilton, chairman of the Wilmington Planning Board, noted that the process is unknown since "we, as a town, have never done this kind of project." She said if

Screening underway for new superintendent

by Arlene Surprenant

As the interview process for Wilmington School Superintendent gets underway, the public will have a chance to comment on each of the 12 semi-finalists.

In a four to one vote of the school committee last week, it was decided to pass out evaluation sheets to residents during the interviews to allow for comments on the candidates. Only Tony Accardi voted against the motion. He urged, instead, that a screening committee composed of parents, teachers, and others be formed in order to conduct the interviews. Other committeemen felt that formation of the advisory group would be too time-consuming and would take away from their responsibility. It was decided the evaluations would give anyone in attendance enough opportunity to give input into the process.

At the finalist level, the committee will again conduct the actual interviews while residents will have a chance to pose questions during a public symposium.

Interviews of Richard Hamilton, James Leonard, and Nathan Chesler were held Monday night. Interviews for the remainder of the semi-finalists will be held in the public library conference room on October 27, November 7, and November 10 at 6:30 p.m.

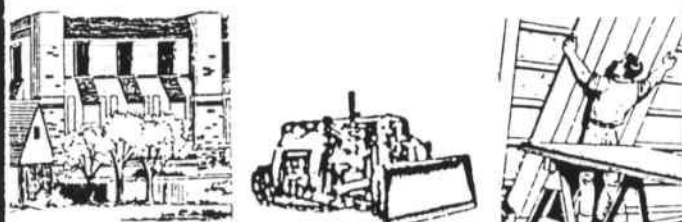

In a tentative schedule of screening events, board members plan to conduct on-site visits to the finalists' places of business during the week of November 28 and conduct final interviews during the week of December 5. It is hoped a final decision can be reached by December 12 so a new superintendent can be hired by the Christmas holidays. It is possible, however, that the chosen candidate may have to give a 60 to 90 day notice at his present job, in which case a new superintendent may not be on board before March.

Horribles Parade Monday evening

The Recreation Department invites Wilmington youngsters of all ages to participate in the 20th annual Horribles Parade. The 1988 parade of horrors will be held Monday evening, October 31. Participants will form next to the police station at 6:30 a.m. and begin marching up Church Street at 6:45 to the WHS tennis courts where special ribbons and treats for all will be available.

Adults wishing to volunteer should call the Recreation Office at 658-4270.

Weight check

Salem Street in Wilmington has not been closed to trucks, but truckers using the street have found that police are stopping trucks for weight checks. The traffic division of the Wilmington Police Dept. was on the job Tuesday morning. Officer Jim Peterson is shown reading scales under the wheels of a 10-wheel gravel truck, which weighed in 7000 pounds over its registered weight.

Tewksbury turns down truck ban, asks better input from Wilmington

by Bill Conlon
The Tewksbury Board of Selectmen this week refused to support a proposed ban on heavy trucking on Salem Road, citing problems with a Wilmington proposal.

[The avenue is called Salem Road in Tewksbury, but becomes Salem Street at the Wilmington line. Both names will be used interchangeably in this story. — Ed.]

The Wilmington proposal would have heavy trucks follow I-93 to I-495, then take Route 38 through the center of town to their local destinations, instead of using the smaller side roads.

Expecting, however, that the big rigs will instead use the I-93 exit at Dascomb Road as a shortcut into town, an additional proposal by Tewksbury would exclude heavy trucks from portions of Shawsheen Street, East Street and Vale Street.

A Tewksbury subcommittee, made up of Selectmen Bill Hurton and Charles Coppola, Police Chief John Mackey, and Town Manager David Cressmen, reviewed the proposal by the town of Wilmington, and found it lacking, according to Coppola.

To ban heavy trucking on Salem Road, Coppola told the selectmen, would require more money and manpower than Tewksbury can spare. Traffic studies would first be needed on the various roads, and more funding for the police would be needed to pay for enforcing the trucking bans, he said.

Also, the town does not have the special scales needed for weighing trucks, Coppola said.

Tewksbury Town Manager David Cressman this week said that the intersection of Interstate 495 and Route 38 is "already horrendous," and that adding more truck traffic would only make things worse.

Wilmington Selectman Michael McCoy paid a visit to Tewksbury's board this week, but said that he was on hand to represent neighbors and not as an official spokesman of the town.

"The dangerous trucks belong on the main drags," McCoy told his Tewksbury colleagues, "not on the secondary roads, the scenic roads."

Tony Capuano of Salem Street, Wilmington, who has spearheaded the fight to keep heavy trucks out of his neighborhood, said that many of the heaviest trucks are coming from a sand pit at the Wilmington-North Reading line, and taking Salem Road to Route 38 as a shortcut to Lowell.

Selectman Bill Hurton of Tewksbury doubted that Route 38 would be quicker than the interstates, but Capuano held his ground.

Cement trucks "by the hundreds" are using Salem Street, many of them illegally overweight, he said, but the "interstates were built for that kind of traffic." One such truck was supposedly caught by Wilmington police on Salem Street that morning, and Capuano said the truck was found to be 7,600 pounds over its legal weight limit.

Other dangerous trucking on the road includes vehicles carrying up to 11,000 gallons of gasoline, he said, and 14-wheel "tri-axle" trucks that would "take out ten houses" if one ever lost control.

"This place has become a highway," Capuano said, suggesting that a maximum weight limit of five tons be established for trucks on Salem Street.

After his address to the selectmen, Capuano was given a round of applause by the gathering on hand.

But while Tewksbury selectmen agreed that a problem exists, they said they were not satisfied with the proposal by Wilmington.

Bill Massos, of Salem Road in Tewksbury, asked the selectmen to make a counter-proposal to Wilmington, to keep communications on the subject open.

Selectman Chairman Jay Kelley told Massos that Tewksbury has no intention to abandon the issue, but said that a better proposal from Wilmington is needed.

The board voted unanimously to send a letter to Wilmington town manager Buzz Stapczynski giving Tewksbury's reasons for refusing the truck exclusion proposal.

It's YOUR Money

SHOULD YOU
AMEND LAST YEAR'S RETURN?

While you're trying to save money on your 1988 taxes, don't neglect your 1987 return - or that of 1985 and 1986, either. You have three years from the original filing deadline to make changes by filing Form 1040X; no prior approval is necessary.

Perhaps you missed out taking a deduction for sales tax on a new car in 1986, or income-averaging when this option was available. You're also allowed to simply change your mind. Say you and your spouse filed separately last year, but now you find it more advantageous to file jointly. Perhaps you've now decided not to buy a new home and to take advantage of the one-time exclusion on the capital gain earned when you sold your residence last year.

Tax sources disagree as to whether an amended return is more likely to be audited. They all emphasize, however, that you should be prepared to prove any deduction you take; attaching a copy of receipts or other documentation will help.

Microwave okayed for NYNEX tower

The Wilmington Board of Appeals on September 20 granted to the NYNEX Mobile Communications Inc. a variance to allow the placement of a microwave transmission disc, four feet in diameter on an existing tower located at 625 Main St. There was no opposition to the proposal.

The Attorney was Lawrence Kaplan, and the engineering discussion was by John A. Williams, of NYNEX.

NYNEX has, in the past four years, so increased the capacity of its radio telephone transmission for portable telephones that it is now eliminating the use of telephone lines and cables, and will result in clearer transmission of messages. There will be added reliability, and the system will be flexible, so as to allow for the addition of more circuits.

The Massachusetts Department of Public Health, Williamson said has very strict regulations, far more rigid than those of the United States.

There will be no more "exposure" to microwaves than there will be from a microwave oven more than a few feet away, Williamson said. The vote of the board was unanimous.

Court complaint issued for fence violation

A fence at the corner of Salem Street and Ring Avenue in Wilmington is the cause of a complaint which has been issued against the man leading a drive to ban trucks from Salem Street.

Anthony Capuano of Ring Avenue is the owner of a fence which town officials have charged is blocking the view of motorists emerging onto Salem Street from Ring Avenue. A complaint was issued against him in Woburn District Court on Friday, after a hearing initiated by the Wilmington Police Department.

Capuano has said that the fence complaint is being pressed because of his activity in pressing for a truck ban.

When interviewed by the Town

Crier in early September, Capuano said that if the fence were a hazard, he would immediately remove it. Instead, he is fighting the matter by challenging officials to take him to court, which they have now done.

Capuano requested accident reports for the intersection going back 16 years. Although he has not received the reports, he has displayed a letter from the chief of police saying that there have been no accidents at the intersection in the past 21 months.

Capuano maintains that the speed of the traffic on Salem Street is the safety problem, not his fence. He has said that, if anything, the presence of the fence causes motorists to be extra careful when pulling out of Ring Avenue.

Storm damage

The fast-moving but intense storm which hit the area on Friday night dropped a weeping willow tree on the home of Marty Kuchler of South Street, Wilmington. Marty was away at the time, but his son heard the noise at 3:30 a.m. and figured it was just a branch. The tree was not large, and damage to the house was minor.

HOW LONG WILL IT TAKE YOUR HOUSE TO SELL

Did you ever wonder why some houses sell so quickly and others stay on the market for months, even years, before someone buys them. Price is important, and so is the way a home is marketed. Just as important, however, is its basic appeal.

Once the listing agreement is signed your Realtor will give you some suggestions about simple ways you can help people fall in love with your house. If you follow his or her advice, you will help set the stage for a quick sale. It may mean sprucing up the yard, painting the exterior trim, neatening the closets, scrubbing down the kitchen and baths, or placing some pretty flowers in a vase on your dining room table.

Your Realtor's job is to market your home and to make sure qualified buyers see it. The seller's job is to make sure that what we show our buyers looks as good as it possibly can. If you maximize the appeal of your house, you will minimize the length of time it will be on the market.

Concessions sought on Shawsheen River Estates

by Arlene Surprenant
At a CDAG hearing in June, Wilmington selectmen agreed to endorse a $500,000 state grant for the Shawsheen River Estates project in return for several concessions made by the developer at a later date. Those concessions, they said at the time, would only be negotiated with their board and funds would only be released if the trade-offs were accepted by proponents of the project.

At an executive session Monday night, selectmen reportedly drew up a second list of trade-offs for negotiation purposes. The original list included such concessions as a reduction in density, landscaping buffer, three alternatives to a through access road to address traffic safety issues, and lessening the construction impact on neighborhoods.

In Monday's open session, some selectmen said they had concerns similar to those of neighbors, who feared the project would create safety problems for their children and jeopardize their quality of life. Both Michael McCoy and Dan Ballou said they would negotiate to change the through access road from Hopkins to Reed Street, perhaps, to two dead end cul de sacs to avoid cut-through traffic. McCoy said after talking to Fire Chief Dan Wandell, the chief had "absolutely" no problem with making the two streets extensions rather than thru streets.

Planning Board Chairman Carole Hamilton questioned the legality of reopening issues that were resolved in the board of appeals decision. The board of appeals stated that access would be a through road connecting Hopkins and Reed Streets. Stewart said it might be difficult to open access as an negotiating point, despite the fact that it was one of the issues selectmen said they would consider once the funds come in.

According to the town manager, the state is ready to move on the CDAG grant once the final application to the Massachusetts Housing Finance Agency is approved. That reportedly could take four to eight weeks.

Wrong place at the wrong time

Friday was not a good day for Jane Karabatsos of Woburn. As she was leaving the Colonial Park Mall in Wilmington, her nearly-new 1988 Mercury Tracer became wedged under a semi-trailer. The Mercury was to the right of the trailer as the tractor-trailer unit was turning right. The truck was driven by Robert Dee Myers of Tulsa, Oklahoma. Nobody was hurt in the accident, but the Mercury was heavily damaged.

Continuance granted for Amherst Road, Partridge Lane subdivisions

by Arlene Surprenant
Continuances were granted to applicants for the Amherst Road and Partridge Lane subdivisions Tuesday following planning board public hearings on their definitive plans.

Engineer Erich Nitzsche requested the continuances until December 14 for clients Ralph Surinello and John Forrest. At that time, the board is expected to issue a decision on the plans.

The Amherst Road project is located off Shawsheen Avenue near the West Intermediate School. At the hearing, Nitzsche reviewed revisions to the original plan which include a realignment of the road, the elimination of a concrete wall, and the addition of a tenth house lot. Nitzsche said the revisions have already been discussed with the town engineer and proponents have an order of conditions from the Conservation Commission.

Abutters' main concerns centered on the possible contamination of nearby wells and continuing water problems in the area. Nitzsche explained under Title V septic regulations, the developer is required to locate septic systems at least 100 feet away from private wells. He added by looping the water mains, as is being proposed, area water quality would improve.

One abutter wasn't convinced all would go well. "I think we're heading for a disaster," he said.

The two lot Partridge Lane subdivision will be located off Lowell Street in a high density business zone originally rezoned to allow Forrest to relocate his gas station. Nitzsche said the owner plans to set aside the smaller parcel the service station. What will go on the other lot is not known at this time, said Nitzsche.

Nitzsche explained the plan met board of health criteria and 90 percent of both lots would be paved. The proponent plans to come back to the board at a later date to present detailed site plans for both parcels.

Abutter Rick Jajodyski pointed out that Forrest's original intent was to use the four and a half acre parcel for his service station. Chairman Carole Hamilton replied that the owner has the right to develop his land "to the best and highest use."

"We as a planning board will not stand in the way of that happening," she said. Hamilton added, as far as her board is concerned, Partridge Lane is a legal and not a marginal subdivision.

Other issues had to do with the construction of parking facilities 20 feet away from the nearest lot lines and access off Westdale Avenue. Neighbors were assured there would be no commercial or industrial traffic routed through Westdale Avenue, which is a residential street. The only access to the project will be through a 60-foot wide road off Lowell Street, planners said.

Frank Tuttle Memorial Award

The Wilmington Community Fund recently honored the memory of Frank Tuttle, who served on the board many years ago, and in recent years walked in the annual walkathon, raising thousands of dollars. The Community Fund board has created a special award to be presented each year in his memory. Board members recently visited Mrs. Henrietta Tuttle and presented her with awards which Frank had earned in last year's walkathon. The awards were presented by Community Fund president Tom Bissett.

State DPW committed to reopening Woburn Street

The Massachusetts Commissioner of the Department of Public Works, Jane Garvey, told the Woburn Business Association, last week, that the DPW remains committed to the building of a road to connect Woburn and Wilmington at the ends of New Boston Street.

No time limit was set by the commissioner, but she praised the mayor of Woburn, John Rabbitt, for "moving ahead" with engineering and land taking work in the area where the two ends of New Boston Street are separated. A former bridge, at the town - city line has been out of commission for some years.

Garvey spoke for over half an hour on projects relating to Route 128 and Woburn. One subject of discussion was a new interchange for Interstate 93 to provide access for the North Woburn industrial area. The only access to the area comes from Route 128.

The present design calls for only one exit from Interstate 93, and that on the south bound lane. Members of the Association and others told Garvey that it would make more sense if the new interchange allowed motorists to enter and exit from both sides of Interstate 93, according to a report printed in the Times Chronicle of Woburn.

Frankly speaking

by Kevin John Sowyrda

The agenda for the November special town meeting should make for a tedious evening, as voters consider a broad range of warrant articles dealing with the budget, town charter amendments, and certain changes to local zoning by-laws.

Articles Three, Four and Five are proposed by the Affordable Housing Task Force and represent a year's work on how to improve the availability of affordable housing through changes in zoning. Lynn Leab from Community Opportunities Group, Inc. has been the town's consultant, and says that the principle objective of the zoning proposals is to "encourage affordable housing that meets the needs of the town and best preserves the town's character."

Article Five should be the least controversial of the zoning changes. Saying the idea is "to help elderly people and others share housing costs", Lynn Leab describes the article as a positive change for those who want to build a separate apartment within their own home.

Presently, a home owner would have to go before the appeals board for an accessory apartment. With Article Five, you would simply go to the building inspector for a permit. There would be strict design and parking requirements and the home must remain owner occupied. Perhaps most significant, the appearance of the structure would have to remain that of a single-family home.

Article Four is where things get a little more interesting. Directly linked to Article Three, it would establish something called the Inclusionary Housing Bonus, which we will coin the IHB.

In a nutshell, IHB holds out a carrot to developers in hope that they will work with the town on affordable housing, and avoid the now famous Chapter 774 program. Chapter 774 leaves little control to local zoning and regulatory boards.

IHB would grant developers a 50 percent increase in density in exchange for the construction of affordable units. The program would be managed by the planning board, and the guidelines for what is considered affordable would be modeled after the Home Ownership Program. Consultant Lynn Leab described Article Four as an effort to "put affordable housing back in the hands of the town, instead of the state."

Now for the real meat of the zoning proposals, Article Three. It is the most intriguing, and should spur the most debate at town meeting. If passed, the two major changes would be taking town meeting out of the PRD approval process and linking Planned Residential Development (PRD) projects to affordable housing.

Presently, PRD proposals must go to town meeting for approval. Article Three would end that, and instead the proponents would deal directly with the planning board. In defense of this, Lynn Leab said, "The key here isn't a carte blanche to the planning board, but instead strict development standards that will be spelled out."

In fact, Article three is an improvement, from a conservation perspective, in the density of PRD projects. According to Lynn Leab, a PRD located in an R60 zone today would allow for the construction of three units per acre. With the passage of Article 3, this would change to one unit per acre.

However, there would be a density increase if the planning board awarded an Inclusionary Housing Bonus, as outlined in Article Four. This is where Articles Three and Four are closely linked, and dependent on one another. The IHB, as we call it, would for the first time link PRD with affordable housing. Lynn Leab describes this as "the major change" of all the zoning proposals.

Taking town meeting out of the approval process for PRD is the most controversial zoning change to be proposed in some time. In a way, it's ironic. Affordable housing is a community problem, which should be solved with a community consensus. Town meetings have provided consensus for some two hundred years now, and one would hope that its integrity will not be compromised without very good reason.

point of view

Hanging tough

by Arlene Surprenant

A chance remark by the chairman of the Wilmington Planning Board zeroed in on a major concern with the 774 project Shawsheen River Estates.

Carole Hamilton told selectmen this week "we as a town have never done this kind of project (before)." The whole process, she added, "at this point is a little bit unknown."

To many observers, Shawsheen River Estates is an experiment never before attempted in Wilmington. As with any experiment, people are unsure how it will turn out. It could be a failure, in which case neighbors will surely bear the brunt of the experiment. Or it could be a success. In that case, the project could turn out to be one answer to Wilmington's affordable housing needs and, perhaps, a showpiece for the state.

Neighbors have been criticized in recent months for cornering town officials and repeatedly bringing up the same concerns. Those concerns have yet to be addressed, even partially, to neighbors' satisfaction. Some residents have said though they had faith that the town would bargain on their behalf, that faith turns out to be misplaced.

Through the board of selectmen, Wilmington still has a chance to address such legitimate concerns as safety and traffic issues, access to the site, construction impact, density, and aesthetics. Project proponents say they no longer have the same money constraints as before, largely because of their phasing plans and the willingness of several banks to invest in their development. Selectmen should take advantage of this since money was originally given as a reason NOT to grant some amenities, reduce density, or change the road layout.

While there is still time, selectmen should become informed on all aspects of the project and hang tough on previous concessions they themselves requested of residents. Only then can this embattled development turn into a positive project for the entire town.

The Humble Farmer

The Portrait Painter

Everyone should sit for a portrait. That's what my artist friend said, and I had to agree with her. Go into any house infested with fifth or sixth generation money and you'll see musty old ancestors in black scowling down from gilded frames.

True, new money goes in big for old portraits too, but in them you can't recognize the ears, eyes or prominent chin of your host, who will explain that he bought these particular ancestors at auction simply because he liked them.

So it should come as no surprise that I'd been tempted to pose several times before - usually for artists who travel with fairs. But either there was too much of a waiting line, or the faces on the samples were too distorted to suit me, or I didn't have the $10.

But this week everything fell into place and I showed up at my friend's studio in my best clothes - blue shirt, red L. L. Bean suspenders and gold plaid tie. I carefully positioned myself with the light from the big north window on my right - my best side.

My artist friend closed one eye, held a pencil out at arm's length, and looked at my nose across the top of it. "This is going to be the most difficult thing you've ever done," she signed.

I'd heard that time can drag while posing, but told her I was willing to grit my teeth and bear it for the sake of the art world.

Then I got down to business and away went the shortest five hours I've ever spent in my life.

Because posing is no more than carrying on an interesting conversation across a table with someone who doodles. True, when an artist looks in your eyes you can feel her poking around in the rubbish behind them. And from time to time she'll make some excited little comment about what she sees.

But other than that, artists are probably quite normal.

By the nature of their work, they study people. "Tell me about the types who attend art shows," I begged.

"Promise me you won't write it?" "You have my word."

My friend smiled at me over the top of her glasses and said, "Oh, there's the Bohemian with hairy legs who floats about in a long skirt and sandals playing the ingenue. She thinks that long braid half way down her back - that carefully contrived I-don't-care look - cries out to be painted. She eats grains."

"Then there's her opposite with hat cocked to one side. She thinks she's chic and wears enough makeup to go on the stage. You see, instead of thinking of what they're about to see, they go to art shows thinking about what they're going to wear and what they're going to say and what kind of an entrance they're going to make."

"What do men do?"

"Men are often there only because their women make them go. Ego trip buyers are men. When they think enough people are watching them, they'll get their kicks by buying something. Somehow, they actually get to be a part of the painting. The next day they call and cancel."

They're close cousins to those who are turned on by the 'Sold' sign. They'll tell you if you ever do another one of the same subject to let them know. When you do, it's either too big, too small or the wrong color. They never say it's too expensive.

"Then there are those who can't do anything themselves - they need a decorator to decorate, a cookbook to cook. Suddenly, they realize that everything is being sold so they flutter about and quickly buy the one that's left - hopefully the cheapest."

"The better galleries serve green olives and cashews instead of hot, buttered cereal," I said with the air of a man who has patronized art.

"Ah, yes, the munchers who come for the hors d'oeuvres. And their friends who put their backs to the paintings and look for famous people. Their opposites have seen it all, done it all, been everywhere. They'll talk to you but consciously avoid any referral to what is hanging on the wall. They don't want you to think they really came to look at your paintings - especially if they recognize what's in them."

"An art show's a stage," I cried. My friend nodded. "These characters come to act whereas an artist would like to see them react."

As I said, the day flew by. The next day she called in sick and asked if we could do the final sitting over the phone. I suppose that after looking at me for five hours it could happen to anybody.

letters to the editor

Dear Larz:

I am urging everyone living in Massachusetts to consider voting "No" on Question 4, the referendum that would shut down the generation of electricity by Massachusetts' nuclear electricity plants.

Passage of this referendum would leave us very vulnerable to electricity shortages. Just last summer, the New England Power Pool had to impose emergency voltage reductions 10 times. We and other companies were required to use our emergency generators. Next summer, with less available power, the state could be crippled."

If Massachusetts confiscates those two power plants, we the taxpayers will have to pay many billion dollars in compensation. In addition, we will have to buy, through higher rates or increased taxes, new fossil fuel plants to replace them. As a result, we'll pay much higher electric rates and be heavily dependent on foreign oil with its unreliable costs and availability. The gas lines of the '70s could look like a picnic.

A "No" vote on Question 4 will keep us going long enough to solve the long range problems.

Sincerely,
John S. Anderson, Jr. chairman
Dynamics Research Corp.

Dear Larz:

Despite claims that Americans are not interested in this year's elections, over 62,000,000 voters tuned in to the most recent presidential debate. Town clerks all over Massachusetts are reporting a tremendous increase in new voter registration.

Obviously, the attention has been focussed on the Bush-Dukakis race. There is another important race that Massachusetts voters should be thinking about however, and that is the race for the United States Senate. A youthful, energetic challenger named Joe Malone is waging an aggressive campaign against Ted Kennedy.

I had an opportunity recently to listen to Joe Malone speak at a campaign forum. He was extremely articulate and he demonstrated a thorough understanding of the issues facing this country. It is my feeling that Ted Kennedy no longer represents working class America.

Rather than take my word however, I urge people to see for themselves. On Saturday, October 29, at 8 p.m. on Channel 5, Joe Malone will debate Ted Kennedy. I hope people will take the opportunity to tune in and compare both candidates. I am confident that most people will come away as impressed with Joe Malone as I am.

Sincerely,
Michelle Nortonen

Question Three would cripple farmers

by Larz F. Neilson

With the level of development that has occurred in the area in recent years, it might seem that there are no farmers left in this part of the state. But they do still exist, and they are now facing yet another threat to their existence, on top of escalating land values, lack of farm hands and declining food prices.

A group of animal rights activists has placed a referendum on the November ballot which, if approved, would require the state Department of Food and Agriculture to implement regulations to assure humane treatment of farm animals, and create a so-called scientific advisory board to oversee this matter.

Proponents of Question Three cite abuses such as confinement of veal calves, confinement of laying hens, and suffocating or grinding of male baby chicks as problems which would be addressed by the proposed law.

On the surface, this might seem like a good idea. After all, who could be in favor of hurting animals? This proposal, though, would hurt the people who raise animals -- the farmers.

There is no evidence of animal abuse occurring in Massachusetts. Farmers say that the referendum was created by people who neither understand nor appreciate livestock farming. And even if there were isolated cases of abuse to be found, this would not justify going after all farmers with unnecessarily broad controls.

The regulations proposed under the referendum would be so far-reaching as to affect any farmer keeping animals. Most farmers would have to build new barns to meet the requirements. Faced with such a severe economic burden, most of them would have to sell out, resulting in a tragic loss of open space throughout the state.

The law does create a fund to pay farmers for improvements, but it would not begin to cover the cost of the work that would be required. The fund would provide about $500,000.

The Commissioner of the Department of Food and Agriculture estimates that the provisions of this law would require farmers to spend $90 million to alter barns and structures.

Additionally, farmers object to the proposed advisory board as being biased in its makeup, with four of the five proposed members to be named by animal rights groups, and nobody representing the farmers. The board would be just another layer of bureaucracy adding complications and costs to the life of the Bay State's already over-burdened farmers. This board would use taxpayers' money to advance the viewpoint of a narrowly-focused group.

Question Three does have some noble purposes. After all, who can argue in favor of mal-treatment of animals. The referendum as presented, though, has flaws which would make it a bad law.

The Committee on Natural Resources and Agriculture unanimously rejected the proposed law, citing severe defects in both form and content. In its report, the committee noted that at its hearing, almost every person or group (except the petition sponsors) expressed serious reservations or outright opposition.

The committee, made up of five state senators and 11 representatives, including Geoffrey Beckwith of Reading, noted that the proposal makes reference to practices (such as the grinding of baby chicks) that have not been used in Massachusetts agriculture for more than 50 years, in an attempt to evoke hysteria among a caring citizenry.

Not one of the 16 legislators on the committee supported this petition. The report reads, "Each of has different reasons for opposing the Initiative, but we all agree that passage of H4002 will have dire consequences not only for farmers but for all citizens of the Commonwealth."

Voters would do well to reject Question Three.

Dear Larz:

The following is an open letter to parents of special needs students within the Wilmington school system:

Wilmington Special Needs Students have been fortunate to have had quality programs since Chapter 766 took effect in 1974; however, the number of special need students has gone up while staff has been reduced. Can we still maintain quality services for our Special Needs students?

Did you know

- * that all elementary resource rooms have lost paraprofessionals (aides) to assist special education teachers? Do you know what effect this will have on your child's I.E.P. implementation?

- * that the Wilmington High School resource room has been reduced by one (1) special education teacher?

- * that an independent evaluation of Wilmington's speech and language program recommended the addition of another speech/language pathologist? Will this be funded this year?

These and other concerns should be of major concern to all parents of special needs children, whatever their degree of need. The Wilmington Special Needs Advisory Council needs your support.

Please come and join us for our November meeting which will be held Monday November 7, 1988 at 7:30 p.m. in the Fourth of July Headquarters, Middlesex Avenue, across from the town common.

Special needs concerns us all.
David J. Fitzgerald, president
Wilmington SNAC

Dear Larz:

I am enclosing a draft that I would like you to print. I ask that you please correct my grammatical, spelling and punctuation errors as I am not especially good in these areas.

I've been a resident of Wilmington for more than 12 years and I came here from Chelsea, another city that was destroyed by a highway passing through and industry placed there for the convenience of others - rags, oil, junk, all the owners of these businesses lived in the clean, quiet suburbs; most of the workers came from out-of-town so there was always lots of traffic.

Chelsea is a convenient location and was used just the same way that it looks as though Wilmington is going to be used. This town has to make a stand and fight against this parking lot issue or it will die. All the good people who live here will get sick of the traffic and will leave - the rest is history.

If this thing passes we can look at Chelsea as the future Wilmington and I won't be here then because I'll move again, only the next time I'm not looking for convenience, I'm going to look for peace and quiet and I'll get my conveniences from towns like Wilmington and Chelsea.

Thanks

A concerned citizen

Dear Larz:

Re: "Madame Eames" article T.C., 21 Sept. 1988.

I believe that Fred and Gertrude (Gounds) Eames could have lived in the Zaccagnini house and not the Peterson house at 34 Middlesex Avenue. I could be wrong though. We moved from Reading to 311 Middlesex Avenue in 1917 and lived there until 19 Nov. 1927. (I remember that date because it was my 12th birthday that we moved to 136 Middlesex Avenue) at that time Frank Lawrence, brother of Fred lived in the Zaccagnini home with his wife, Helen A. Slipp of Lowell, who was born in Cambr, New Brunswick, 31 Jan. 1871 and died in Wilmington 19 Apr. 1923. They were married 16 Oct. 1912 - he being 54 years old and she 43; needless to say there were no children. After Mrs. Eames died, Frank had a housekeeper by name of Olive Merritt; but on his gravestone there are three women's names: Helen, his wife; Augusta C. Colwell, 1851-1945; and Olive L. Merritt, 1880-1958.

By the way, as you probably know Nathan Bradley's wife was Sarah W. Swain, daughter of Levi and Phebe (Gowing) Swain, my great-great-grandparents, so we are related to that branch of the Eames'. My dad, Uncle Chester and Aunt Hilda talked a lot about "Uncle Brad."

It could be that Fred and Gertrude lived at 311 Middlesex as you said her house was built in 1910 before we moved from Reading. At the time we moved up to Wilmington. Frank lived in the Zaccagnini house and the reason we had to move to 136 Middlesex later on was because Frank wanted our house for Gertrude and Charles Allgrove.

Sincerely,
Louise B.

To the People
of Wilmington:

Once again the town of Wilmington is about to be attacked for the benefit of others. Many years ago the state decided to make a highway to get people to and from Boston, as a result they took land from Wilmington to put in the present Route 93 and in so doing they caused hardship to families and friends and to all residents in the town in the following ways:

Families who had land here for generations lost that land and were displaced, some had to leave town. Friends who lived in neighborhoods were separated by a highway that came between their streets; a quiet town was turned into a noisy thoroughway where you could hear the traffic going through town on 93. Add the fumes and spills that have happened over the years causing a change in the clean air environment.

I'm sure I'm missing many other problems, but some others that I think of are the higher cost of living for Wilmington residents, insurance companies up the price of auto insurance for Wilmington residents due to all the accidents on 93 and the town's revenue was cut when all the real estate was taken away. Also, is it not true that Wilmington's police and fire departments must respond to accidents on 93. All of this costs Wilmington residents added expense for the convenience of people north of us. What about the MBTA money we pay?

Let's talk about the present. Many people from Wilmington worked long and hard to get a health center here to help save lives in emergency situations. Right now, if a train stops at North Wilmington and an emergency vehicle is trying to get to RHC it is stuck in traffic and life threatening minutes are lost. This problem will get worse if North Wilmington becomes a parking lot for the convenience of people north of us.

Right now it can take me 10 minutes to make a left hand turn coming off Shady Lane. I will never get out once a parking lot is put in up there. Everyone who lives in town will be forced to make changes in their lifestyle because of the major traffic jams caused by this parking lot, as it is the traffic is so heavy it takes up to 25 minutes to get to the post office in the morning from Shady Lane. Why should we suffer for the convenience of people north of us.

When I moved out of the city it was for a single family residence, a yard, peace and quiet, but I also looked for a town that had the convenience I may need - train service to Boston, health facility in immediate area in case of emergency, easy access to other towns through secondary roads such as 28, 129, 62, 125 so as to avoid major highways. Wilmington offered all of this. That's why I chose to live here. Now for the convenience of people who decided to leave Massachusetts and its taxes, who wanted quite with no traffic, but yet want the economic jobs here and in Boston, they are talking about making our community a parking lot.

Something is wrong. Let these people fight for MBTA service in their own town or for highways in their own towns; let them put up with what Wilmington has over the years for their own convenience and stay out of Wilmington. We already have more than our share of traffic, noise and pollution because of outside people.

Let the people of Wilmington fight this turning of North Wilmington into a parking lot. Let the people from north of here find ways of getting to and from Boston somewhere else. The people of Wilmington are not going to pay for their conveniences anymore. There are lots of homes in Wilmington for sale let these people buy and move here if they like the convenience of our town. This way they are helping our town instead of hurting it.

Let everyone in Wilmington stand up and fight to save our town from becoming a dumping ground for the convenience of people north of us.

A concerned citizen

Great American Smokeout set for November 17

Thursday, November 17, will make a Great American Smokeout "clean dozen" - the twelfth annual quit day offered by the American Cancer Society for smokers who want to make it through at least 24 hours without a cigarette.

Close to half of Massachusetts' estimated 1.5 million smokers are expected to participate in the Smokeout, which will involve approximately 20,000,000 would-be quitters nationwide.

Businesses, hospitals, and community groups are sponsoring rallies, health fairs, lunch hour educational programs, and smoking cessation workshops to help new ex-smokers resist the urge to smoke on November 17 and beyond.

The Community Health Education Department of the Regional Health Center in Wilmington will hold a Smoke Cessation program on Thursdays, Nov. 3, 10, 17; Monday, Nov. 21 and end on Thursday, Dec. 1. All evenings will be attended from 7 to 8:30 p.m. Pre-registration is required by calling 657-3910, ext. 567.

"For the Smokeout's 12th year, the American Cancer Society will be sponsoring the Twelve Days of Smokeout in Massachusetts beginning November 17," said Nick Ingala, public information chairperson for the American Cancer Society's Massachusetts Division. "The first two to three weeks are a crucial time for someone trying to quit, when the addiction to nicotine makes the temptation to return to smoking particularly strong. Extending the support for new ex-smokers over 12 days will address their needs during that important time, while tying in with the start of the holiday season."

The Adopt-a-Smoker program pairs Smokeout participants with nonsmoking friends to provide support and encouragement to help them resist the urge to return to cigarettes. Postcards, headless matches, buttons, and "How to Stay Quit Through the Holidays" brochures will be available at the booth in the lobby of the Regional Health Center Thursday, November 17.

The Great American Smokeout is sponsored annually by the American Cancer Society on the Thursday before Thanksgiving. In 1987, the Smokeout garnered 19.6 million participants, representing 39.1 percent of the nation's estimated 50,000,000 smokers. More than 3.7 million were still not smoking three days later.

Take a breather on Thursday, November 17th!!!

Three year fire fighters contract approved

Wilmington officials and members of the International Association of Fire Fighters, Local 1370, have successfully negotiated a three year contract. The agreement features a five percent salary increase in fiscal 1989, a six percent increase in 1990, and a six and a half percent increase in 1991.

According to Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski, the contract also provides an incentive for early retirement, a voluntary physical fitness testing program, a "slight" incentive to attend work on a daily basis and not use sick leave, and a change in the probation program from six to 12 months.

Whales were born in the Scammon Lagoon

by Capt. Larz Neilson

Two whales, frozen in the ice north of Pt. Barrow, Alaska, have captured the attention of the world. As this is being written Soviet Russia has dispatched two ice breakers to the scene, in an effort to assist.

Those whales, and all others of the species of California Gray Whale were born in the Scammon Lagoon, a part of Baja California. It is a story that is not well known. One recent tv program reported that the gray whale was born "off lower California."

The Scammon Lagoon was discovered in the days before the Civil War to be the place where the California Gray was born, and where that species of whale spent the winter months by Capt. Charles M. Scammon. Maine born, by profession he was a whaler and hunter of other marine animals.

Scammon, unlike other whalers, had an innate curiosity about the animals he caught. He studied and classified them, and he wrote a book telling of his studies which was published in San Francisco in 1874. The book was not a money maker, but it has been recently republished by the Dover Publications Inc. of New York, N.Y.

Scammon's discovery led other whalers to the lagoon. The result could be predicted. The California Gray Whale almost completely disappeared.

More fortunately, the Mexican government, in the past quarter of a century or so has absolutely prohibited the capture or killing of whales in the Scammon Lagoon. The result has been an increase in numbers.

The whales leave the lagoon in early spring and swim north, to the Arctic Ocean, and then in the fall they swim south, to their home lagoon. Obviously, this year, some did not leave in time.

The annual migrations of the whales, from the lagoon to the Arctic, and return, is an event which is closely observed from the ports of Los Angeles and San Diego, California. Hundreds of persons are taken out by party boats to observe the favorite whale of the late Capt. Charles M. Scammon.

About the beginning of the Civil War Capt. Scammon became a captain in the U.S. Revenue Marine, a predecessor to the United States Coast Guard. Scammon remained in the Revenue Marine for over 20 years.

The publisher of the Town Crier has been near the Scammon Lagoon on several occasions, but has never seen it. Westerly of the entrance is an island, Cedros Island, past which he has sailed many times.

letter to the editor

Dear Larz:

I've found it necessary to write you on one prior occasion in the 17 years I've resided in Wilmington. That was a response to a letter published in the 7-16-86 edition. I made a vow to myself that that would be my one and only letter to you. I must break that vow with this letter which I write in direct response to the "Frankly Speaking" column published in the 10-12-88 edition.

My first letter was quite lengthy as I pointed out each and every unsubstantiated accusation and stated what actually had happened. I was forced to take that route because there was not a transcript available that I could provide you.

This letter will be as brief as possible because you are being provided a copy of the decision of the Civil Service Commission. (Appeal No. D-2711, Robert Vassallo Appellant - vs- Town of Wilmington) Chief Counsel Cohen of the Civil Service Commission can attest to this document being a public record and she can be reached at 617-272-2293.

Mr. Sowyrd, the author of the column to which I'm responding, has never attended one day of testimony at any of the judicial proceedings. That includes 11 days of testimony at the Town Hall Public Hearing and 7 days of testimony at the Civil Service Commission.

To date, 4 fellow police officers have given testimony contradictory to Robert Vassallo's. He has paid $10,000 to my son, and not to my family as reported by Sowyrd. That payment was contingent on my son's withdrawing a complaint he had filed against Officer Vassallo at Woburn District Court. That complaint charged Vassallo with Assault and Battery With a Dangerous Weapon - Shod Foot. Vassallo was then found guilty and received the maximum penalty of demotion at the Town Hall Public Hearing. And last but not least he was found guilty by the Civil Service Commission. Now I ask you Larz, can everybody be wrong and he be right? I've also enclosed a copy of a Lowell Sun article and a Town Crier article in which Vassallo states that the Town of Wilmington's decision was "politically motivated." Those articles then state that Vassallo had already filed an appeal with the Civil Service Commission where he expected to be "completely vindicated." I suppose that he is now saying that that decision was politically motivated also.

Larz, tell the people of Wilmington who the Civil Service Commission accuses of lying. While you're at it tell them the name of the person whose testimony they discredit. Mr. Sowyrd...it is Robert Vassallo in both cases!

Sowyrd states in his article that my family are "fine people" and "respected in the community." Evidently we are not "fine" or "respected" enough because he has never consulted us as to what took place on the night of February 23, 1985. So where did he get his information if he didn't speak to any of the defense witnesses and never attended any of the judicial proceedings?

Larz, it will be four years ago this February 23rd that Robert Vassallo performed in a manner which cost him $10,000, his stripes and a great deal of embarrassment. But if this newspaper had followed this case and reported what was testified to there wouldn't be people out there wondering what really happened. If you print the decision of the Civil Service Commission I'm sure a lot of those questions will be answered.

And give Sowyrd some much needed advice. If he wants to pursue a career in journalism he will have to learn that a story is not complete and objective until both sides have been heard from.

I would like to end what I hope will be my last letter to you by leaving Sowyrd with a few points of interest.

1) Robert Vassallo cleaned the floor, walls and cell bars of the cell my son was assaulted in on February 23, 1985. It was covered with my son's blood.

2) A contingency of my son accepting the $10,000 payment from Vassallo was that he not be allowed to testify at any future proceedings. Why would he care if my son testified if the payment "was not admitting guilt" but instead just an attempt "to settle a delicate situation" as Sowyrd states in his article. Where was the delicate situation if no medical attention was required as Sowyrd also writes. Is this guy for real?

3) Vassallo's attorney asked me why my son was suing Vassallo and not the Town of Wilmington from whom a greater amount of money could be acquired. I told him that the Town did not kick my son in the face.

4) In my first letter I requested that everyone who testified submit to polygraph examinations. I'm still waiting.

Respectfully,
Bernard T. McNally

Editor's note: The text of the Civil Service decision on the Vassallo case appears on Page 13 of this paper.

Baratta seated as new water commissioner

The first half hour of the meeting of the Wilmington Sewer and Water Commissioners on October 20 was devoted to an indoctrination of the new commissioner, Noel Baratta, P.E., of 11 Taft Rd. The deputy director of Parks Engineering & Construction Division of the Metropolitan District Commission, he has been a Wilmington resident for 11 years.

About the only item that was not mentioned by Chairman Arthur Smith was the fact that Wilmington's town accountant gets the financial statements of the Wilmington Water & Sewer Department.

A wide range of subjects having to do with operations was discussed. Overall, that first half hour can be described as "jolly."

The commissioners are the persons who lay out policy and who approve of all the incoming bills, but they do not run the water department. That is the task for the superintendent, Paul Duggan, in his office, but not at home, Baratta was told.

From time to time selectmen or other political persons appear at the commissioner's meetings, attempting to influence the thinking of the commissioners in behalf of some person. The commissioners do not and will not listen to such pleas. Baratta was told of one such person who stood an hour, waiting to be recognized by the commissioners, and then finally went out, unrecognized.

Neither do the commissioners take private telephone calls, at their home or their office. That is the superintendent's job.

The water department, Baratta was told, exists for the purpose of selling town owned water to the residents and business firms of Wilmington. No tax money is appropriated for water department. Water sales is the only source of revenue.

Sargent Water Station

It will take about three more months to complete the Sargent Water Treatment Plant in North Wilmington, the commissioners were told, by William Gagne and Leo Peters, of the engineering firm of Weston & Sampson. The contract finish date is December 5. It seems the finish date will be about the first of February.

The roof is now finished and painters have started working, with their work to be completed some time in December. The flooring for the building should be in about a month or so, and the engineers hope to complete the paving by the middle of November. The installation of the instrumentation will start in middle, or later, in November.

The engineers see the systems delivery in by mid December.

They will test each system, after the contractors have installed them, and then there will be a 120 hour test to be certain that the systems are "working" together.

Chairman Smith reviewed the planning of the commissioners, for the improvement of the Wilmington water, of which the Sargent Plant is the second part of three.

The Butters Row treatment plant (the first in the nation to remove cancerous material from the water) has been on line, he said, for seven years. The new plant (Sargent) will soon be in operation. It is time for the commissioners to begin their planning for a third water treatment plant, to be in the western part of the town.

With a third water treatment plant the commissioners can shut one down, at any time, for upkeep or repairs, and still have two good sources of water.

Baratta, after listening, remarked that "I am a sewer man" and then said that "the approach" in the planning was excellent.

Lincoln Avenue

George Barboza of Lincoln Avenue will get a connection with town water. Lincoln is in the Taft Road - Swain Road area, where there is a lot of ledge and other material. Thirteen years ago Barboza started to connect his home, but was stopped by a lady who had paid for a water main on another street, and had driven her car across the end of the ditch to stop the work.

Superintendent Paul Duggan had explored the history of the event, and the statutes.

The water department, he said, had paid for the pipe, because they bought it. They had installed it, and they had sold the service to the purchaser.

"My feeling is that 13 1/2 years ago the water department should have called the cops to get that car towed out of there."

Duggan can see "no problems whatsoever." He intends to work through the town counsel, to get the proper wording for the order.

The connection, he said, will probably be made before the winter sets in.

St. Thomas of Villanova

The week of October 23-30 is an exciting one for the children of St. Thomas of Villanova Parish. They are celebrating 100 years of having had a church in which to gather and worship. The telling of their story as a people of faith and the recounting of the life of their patron, St. Thomas of Villanova, will be done on the various grade levels, as special activities have been planned for grades one through 10.

The theme of belonging to a people dedicated to God will be highlighted in grades one, two and three. Grade four will be taking a walking tour with grade five doing a presentation for classmates and parents. Grade six will be treated to a local speaker, Bernard McMahon, on the history of St. Thomas Parish. Grades seven, eight, nine and 10 will be meeting at their usual times with guest speaker, Brother LaGressa.

The atmosphere is one of anticipation as the question, "Guess who is almost 100 years old?" has been posed to the young people for the last few weeks. Gratitude to God and to their ancestors in faith mingles with the joy of belonging and celebrating. There is great cause for rejoicing!

Townpeople and parishioners with photos and memories to share are asked to contact the CCD office, 658-6040, as the commemoration of this 100th anniversary is an ongoing one.

Senior citizen outreach brochure available

by Arlene Surprenant
In an effort to reach out to Wilmington's senior citizen population, a brochure describing various programs at the Buzzell Senior Citizen Center has been prepared.

Two thousand brochures, designed by the Council on Aging and Coordinator Edith Cunningham, are being distributed to the library, area churches, and town hall. It is hoped residents 60 years old and older will pick up a leaflet and take time to visit the center.

The brochures show seniors participating in such activities as dance class, bingo, arts and crafts classes, and the Therapeutic Social.

It also shows the public browsing at the annual fall fair, which this year is being held this weekend beginning at 10 a.m. at the center.

Both Cunningham and Council Chairman Grace Kirkland visited selectmen Monday to share their pride in the center, show off the brochures, and ask that letters of commendation be sent to those who helped make the center a reality.

The Buzzell Senior Citizen Center is open to Wilmington residents Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. It is located on School Street, behind the Swain School off Middlesex Avenue. For further information call 658-2258 or 657-7595.

Workshops will cover a variety of timely topics and will be held in schools throughout the system. Workshops being offered are: Developing a Philosophy on Mainstreaming; Drama in the K-6 Classroom; Project Adventure (to enhance self-esteem and personal growth); Legal Issues (affecting teachers and students); Whole Language Process; Teachers as Leaders; Thinking Skills; and Telecommunications.

Shawsheen School Principal Robert Coffill, who serves as chairman of the In-Service Commission, praised both the staff development program itself and the faculty members who participate. In a letter to all teachers, he asked that they offer ideas for next year's program, especially nationally known speakers who might be invited to Wilmington.

Eagle Scout candidate takes on sticker project

Saturday, October 29, residents of Wilmington can expect to receive a gift that could save a life! Eric Rachdorf, of Troop 56 Boy Scouts of America, is working toward the rank of Eagle Scout, the highest rank that a Boy Scout may strive to attain. One of the requirements for this rank is that the Scout must "plan, develop and give leadership to others in a service project helpful to his religious institution, school or community."

Eric has chosen for his project to obtain 12,000 stickers printed with emergency phone numbers (police, fire - ambulance, Regional Health Center, poison control) and distribute them (two per household) to at least 75 percent (hopefully all) of the 5600 households in Wilmington. These stickers are to be affixed to your telephones to provide a fast reference in case of emergency.

Eric, with the help of volunteers from Troop 56, the Congregational Church and other friends, will be placing these stickers (in a protective plastic bag) on your mailbox or doorknob on Saturday, October 29. Please be sure to place them on your phones right away! If you should happen not to receive your emergency stickers or if you have need of additional stickers, there will be a supply available in the Wilmington Public Library after distribution has taken place.

Regional Health Center offers low-cost mammograms

The Regional Health Center in Wilmington is one of 65 hospitals and care centers statewide that is participating in a low-cost mammography screening for uninsured women. Currently being sponsored by the American Cancer Society's Massachusetts Division, the screening program was developed in conjunction with Dr. Timothy Johnson's News Center 5 series on breast cancer, broadcast by WVCS-TV, Boston during the week of October 17. A similar series was broadcast for Western Massachusetts by WGGB-TV, Springfield.

One out of every 10 women will develop breast cancer in her lifetime. A mammogram is a special low-dose x-ray of the breast that can detect a breast cancer when it is smaller than a dot or a freckle, and up to six years before a woman or her doctor can feel it by hand.

Women over the age of 35 who have no insurance, who are on Medicare or Medicaid, or whose insurance does not reimburse for screening mammograms, may register to receive the lifesaving test at a reduced cost through November 30. Women who meet these criteria should call the American Cancer Society toll free at 1-800-952-7644 to receive a coupon which is reimbursable at the Regional Health Center in Wilmington for a mammogram. Appointments will be scheduled for between now and May 1, 1989.

November 30, 1987, Massachusetts became the fourth state to require insurance companies to reimburse for the cost of mammograms and Pap tests according to the schedules recommended by the American Cancer Society. While more than 80 percent of women are now covered by insurance for the cost of their mammograms, only one in four women have the test regularly. The guidelines for mammography are: a first, or baseline mammogram between the ages of 35 and 39; a mammogram every one or two years between ages 40 and 49; a mammogram annually after the age of 50. The Society stresses that a mammogram is only part of the fight against breast cancer. Women 18 years of age and over should perform monthly breast self-examination, and include physician breast exams as part of their regular health checkups.

For more information, contact any local office of the American Cancer Society, or call them toll-free at 1-800-952-7664.

DPU approves discounted gas rates

The Department of Public Utilities (DPU) has approved a new discounted rate for customers of Colonial Gas Company who are eligible for Supplemental Security Income (SSI). Colonial, which supplies natural gas to approximately 105,000 customers in the Lowell area and Cape Cod, estimates that approximately 1,800 of their customers could qualify for the 20 percent discount which will become effective on November 1, 1988.

Commenting on the action, Bernice K. McIntyre, chairman of the DPU, said, "These new rates are necessary to ensure access to gas service for low-income customers."

The Department has approved rates in instances where the cost impact on the utility's other customers would not be unreasonable. Nearly all the state's electric utilities now have some form of discounted rate for SSI recipients.

SSI recipients who apply for the new rate within a 14 month period starting November 1, 1988, will be billed at that rate retroactive to November 1.

Colonial Gas Company will be mailing bill inserts with information about the new rates. Customers can call the Company's Customer Information Division for further information:

For Lowell area customers: 508-458-3171.

For Cape Cod customers, 1-800-342-3882.

Shawsheen Tech programs cater to local residents

Services available to the public are open for the school year at Shawsheen Tech.

Culinary arts students operate the Ram's Head Dining Room, a table service restaurant offering a selection of appetizers, main courses and desserts, ranging from salad-plates to seafood provencale, and escargot to clam chowder. Students also prepare, package and sell individual frozen dinners as part of their training in convenience foods. These items may be ordered in the dining room. The dining room is open from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. Tuesday through Friday and alternate Mondays. Same day reservations are taken at 9:30 a.m. The Ram's Head is closed during school holidays and vacations.

Appointments are now being accepted at the school's Cosmetology Clinic, which operates a full service beauty salon. Haircuts, permanents, coloring (including frosting), sculptured nails and scalp treatments are among the services offered by qualified juniors and seniors in the cosmetology program. New services this year include steam facials and makeup application.

Students are carefully supervised by instructors Carlo Baratta and Phyllis Mario, both of whom are experienced hairdressers and salon owners as well as teachers. Clinic appointments are available from 7:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. on days school is open. Senior citizens receive a special discount on a "Complete Day of Beauty," including a shampoo, cut, set and facial on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesdays.

Across the hall from cosmetology waits the aromas of baked goods, as culinary arts students prepare daily an ambitious array of breads, rolls, pastries, pies, doughnuts, muffins and bagels. The bakery is open Tuesday through Friday from 9:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. Although the bakery operates on a walk-in basis, advance orders will be accepted from community and non-profit groups within the Shawsheen District communities.

Graphic arts students offer a full line of printing services to municipal and non-profit organizations within the Shawsheen District. Stationery, forms, booklets and brochures are among the items that can be prepared and printed by the shop, which has four color capability.

Other Shawsheen programs that accept requests from community residents and/or organizations include: technical illustration, automotive repair, metal fabrication and machine shop. Acceptance of jobs is dependent upon time restraints and the educational appropriateness of the project to the curriculum. For more information call 667-2111.

Civil Service decision on Vassallo case

Editor's note: The following is the text of a decision by the state Civil Service Commission, issued on an appeal of a demotion of Robert Vassallo. It is printed to provide some clarification as to the case. A letter from Bernard McNally appears on Page 6 of this paper regarding the same subject.

Pursuant to Massachusetts General Laws chapter 31 section 43, the Appellant, Robert E. Vassallo, is appealing the decision of the Appointing Authority, Town of Wilmington, to demote the Appellant from the rank of Sergeant to the rank of Patrolman of the Wilmington Police Department.

The appeal was timely filed. (Exhibit 1). A hearing was held at the Offices of the Civil Service Commission. The hearing was declared public at the request of the Appellant.

Various documents are in evidence. (Exhibit 1-15). The Appellant and nine other witnesses testified. Both parties made arguments on the record and submitted memoranda.

The Appointing Authority stated six specific reasons for demoting the Appellant in a letter of notification dated January 17, 1986. (Exhibit 2). The reasons include:

- A. The use of excessive and unnecessary force on February 24, 1985, at about 12:00 A.M.
- B. Failure to properly execute duties of a Sergeant/Officer-in-charge by failing to submit a timely report to the Police Chief regarding the injuries of the prisoner.

- C. Violation of a direct order from the Chief of Police not to discuss any aspects of this incident with any witness, the victim, or the victim's family.

- D. Withholding evidence by removing copied reports and a video tape from the police department.

- E. Falsification of reports by making false statement son reports submitted to the Chief of Police.

- F. Conduct unbecoming a police officer, including, inter alia, coercing the McNally family into not pressing charges.

The Town claims that there was just cause for demoting Officer Vassallo, a shown by a preponderance of evidence. Additionally, the Town claims that there was no harmful error or any error of law or fact that would allow the Commission to modify the decision to demote Officer Vassallo.

Officer Vassallo argues that any force that was used was not excessive and was in self-defense. He also argues that at the time of the incident his shift had ended and the Officer-in-charge was actually Sergeant Palmer. Therefore, he asserts that Sergeant Palmer not he, was responsible for submitting an incident report. Officer Vassallo further argues that the Chief did not give him a direct order not to discuss the McNally incident with anyone. Finally Officer Vassallo argues that taking the video tape and copying it was permissible. He denies falsifying any reports.

Finding of Fact
1. At approximately 11:45 P.M. on February 23, 1985, units of the Wilmington Police Dept. (Sergeant Vassallo, Officers Parsons and Redding) were dispatched to the residence of Bernard McNally to quell a domestic dispute.

2. At the residence, Bernard McNally's son, Patrick was taken into protective custody. Patrick was intoxicated. Patrick resisted Officer Parsons, yelled and became combative. A wrestling match ensued with Sergeant Vassallo, Officers Parsons and Patrick McNally rolling around on the ground in the back yard until Patrick was handcuffed. Patrick was placed in Officer Redding's cruiser and transported to the station.

3. At the time Patrick was taken into protective custody he had a cut on his right hand, self inflicted, caused by his punching a water cooler in his parents' residence. He also had a scratch on his forehead.

4. Upon arriving at the police station Officer Redding took Patrick to the booking window in the cell lock where he removed the handcuffs. After completing the booking process both Officer Redding and Patrick went to the sink at the other end of the cell block and cleaned up.

5. During the booking and clean up Patrick acted normally. Patrick said that he was very sorry for what had happened. He expressed his concern that he had disappointed his parents. He related to Officer Redding and Sergeant Vassallo and Officer Parsons, who by this time had returned to the station and entered the cellblock area, that he had a drug problem. Patrick was talkative but not combative.

6. While Patrick was talking the group moved down the cellblock toward the booking window until they were in front of cell #4.

7. At some time after the group move din front of cell #4 Sergeant Vassallo told Patrick that "it's time to go into the cell."

8. Patrick did not want to go into the cell and he resisted. Sergeant Vassallo grabbed hold of one of Patrick's arms and Officer Redding the other. Patrick grabbed at the sides of the cell doorway with each hand.

9. Officer Redding's hold was broken and he grabbed hold of Patrick's waist and one arm and twisted him into the cell.

10. Officer Redding, now inside the cell and standing in back of Patrick grasped both of his wrists and pulled his arms upward behind his back. Patrick continued to struggle. As Officer Redding pulled Patrick's arms higher Patrick's head was forced downwards. At this time Sergeant Vassallo kned Patrick in the face two times.*

11. After being kned all resistance by Patrick ended. Redding let go of his wrists and Patrick collapsed onto the bunk and floor. Officer Redding and Sergeant Vassallo left the cell and closed the door.

12. As a result of being kned by Sergeant Vassallo, Patrick's lip was cut and bled heavily. (see Exhibits 9-14).

13. After being struck by Sergeant Vassallo Patrick began swearing. Sergeant Vassallo spoke to Patrick and tried to calm him down. Sergeant Vassallo gave him paper towels for the bleeding.

14. Some time after Bernard McNally came to the police station to see if Patrick had received medical attention for his cut right hand. Bernard spoke to Officer Parsons, who was sitting at the desk. Bernard asked if he could see his son. Officer Parsons responded, "I'd rather you didn't, he's resting comfortably." At this time Patrick yelled from his cell, "Dad come here."

15. Bernard went to the cellblock and observed Patrick standing in his cell. Patrick's face was covered with blood. There was blood on his clothes. His upper lip was swollen. There was blood on the floor of the cell, walls and the cell bars.

16. Patrick, responding to question posed by his father, said that Sergeant Vassallo had kicked him in the mouth while Officer Redding held his hands behind his back.

* Sergeant Vassallo during his testimony admitted that he kned Patrick once.

17. Bernard observed that Patrick's two front teeth were loose and that his lip was cut inside his mouth.

18. Patrick asked his father if he could get him out, to which Bernard responded, "no, I don't think so."

19. Bernard returned home and told his wife what he had observed at the police station.

20. Mrs. McNally asked Bernard if he would go back to the police station and bring Patrick home.

21. About 2:00 a.m. Bernard returned to the police station and told Officer Parsons that he wanted to take Patrick home. Officer Parsons told Bernard that the Sergeant-in-charge, Palmer, would have to authorize Patrick's release.

22. Officer Parsons radioed Sergeant Palmer and told him that Mr. McNally was at the station and wanted to take Patrick home.

Sergeant Palmer proceeded to the station.

23. After Sergeant Palmer arrived at the station, he and Bernard went to Patrick's cell. Bernard told Sergeant Palmer that he was going to file a complaint with the Chief and that he wanted pictures taken. Sergeant Palmer called Officer Waterhouse and had him take pictures of Patrick and the cell.

24. Sergeant Vassallo after being informed by Sergeant Palmer on the telephone that Mr. McNally was going to file a complaint with the Chief arrived at the station. In Sergeant Palmer's presence Sergeant Vassallo told Bernard that he did not kick Patrick and that "on his family's soul he did not touch him."

25. Bernard took Patrick home.

26. Bernard's son, James McNally was a Police Officer for the Wilmington Police Department for three years prior to 1985. On February 24, 1985 he was a Special Agent for the United States Secret Service undergoing a federal law enforcement training course in Georgia.

27. After Bernard and Patrick left the police station Sergeant Vassallo placed a telephone call to James McNally in Georgia. He left a message for James with the Security Officer that there was an emergency at home and James was to call Sergeant Vassallo at the Wilmington Police Department.

28. James McNally was awakened and given the message at approximately 2:30 a.m.

29. James immediately placed a telephone call to Sergeant Vassallo. Sergeant Vassallo told James about Patrick being taken into protective custody. He related to James that Patrick had gotten scratched up pretty good at the house and it looked much worse than it really was. He told James that Patrick said, he (Vassallo) had kicked him, and that his father believed Patrick and was going to seek a complaint against him (Vassallo).

30. Sergeant Vassallo told James that he "never laid a hand" on Patrick and wanted James to intercede with his father for him (Vassallo).

31. James believed Sergeant Vassallo.

32. James called his father. His father was upset to learn that Vassallo had called James. His father told him that there was no doubt that Patrick had been kicked in the face by Vassallo. James told his father there was no time limit and not do to anything until he returned from Georgia on March 8. Bernard returned the civilian complaint form to the police station.

33. Wilmington Police Chief Bobby Stewart, was on vacation until February 27, 1985. When he reported to the police station Sergeant Palmer informed him that Bernard McNally had taken out a citizen complete but had withdrawn it.

34. On March 23, 1985 Patrick filed a citizen's complaint with Chief Stewart against Sergeant Vassallo.

35. On March 25, 1985 Chief Stewart initiated an Internal Affairs investigation and ordered all officers involved (Vassallo, Palmer, Redding, Burke, King and Parsons) to file reports, and he instructed each of them no to discuss the case with witnesses and family members involved with the case.

36. During the first week in April, 1985 Chief Stewart learned that Patrick McNally was going to seek a criminal complaint in the Woburn District Court against Sergeant Vassallo. At that time Chief Stewart suspended the Internal Affairs investigation until such time as the criminal matter was resolved. He notified Vassallo that he was suspended the investigation.

37. On November 6, 1985 Chief Stewart resumed the Internal Affairs investigation. On December 18, 1985 he notified Vassallo that he had resumed the investigation and gave Vassallo additional questions which were answered.

38. On February 28, 1985 Officer Redding and Sergeant Vassallo partially re-enacted the events in cell #4.

39. In or about April, 1985 Robert Vassallo called James McNally to discuss the criminal case that was pending or soon to be pending in the Woburn District Court. James McNally told Vassallo that it was too late to do anything.

40. The practice of the Wilmington Police Department involving an incident which begins on one shift and continues to another is that the Officers and Sergeants on duty carry over into the next shift until that incident is concluded.

41. The policy of the Wilmington Police Department involving video tapes which are to be used in court cases is for the duty Sergeant to turn the video tape into the Lieutenant or the Deputy Chief of the Department.

42. On February 24, 1985 Sergeant Vassallo took possession of a video tape of cell #4. He secured the video tape in his locker. Sometime later Vassallo removed the video tape and had a copy made. In December, 1985 Vassallo was ordered to return the video tape, which he did.

Conclusion and recommendation

The evidence establishes that Sergeant Vassallo used excessive force by twice kneeling Patrick McNally in the face while inside cell #4. As a result of this force McNally's lip was split and he bled heavily from the mouth and perhaps nose. His front teeth were loosened. The evidence does not justify the use of this force. Patrick McNally was intoxicated and had been taken into protective custody. He had been belligerent. He had resisted being placed inside the cell. However, at the time Vassallo kned McNally he was restrained inside the cell. He as not escaping nor did he pose a threat to Vassallo. Vassallo's action was not done in self-defense but was a retaliatory act upon a person in his care and custody and without any justification.

Vassallo's subsequent action of telephoning James McNally in the middle of the night, informing him of the incident, and then lying about his (Vassallo's) involvement is without question conduct unbecoming a police officer and needs no further discussion.

The evidence also establishes that Vassallo failed to file a report about the incident until ordered to do so. Vassallo was the Sergeant-in-charge when the Patrick McNally incident began. The fact that the incident continued into the next shift did not relieve Vassallo of his responsibility as Sergeant-in-charge as to the incident. (See Finding of Fact 40). As Sergeant-in-charge Vassallo was required under the rules and regulations of The Department to file a written report of the incident (See Exhibit 4 p. 17B.5 and p. 20 B.30a).

I conclude that the Appointing Authority has established in whole or part specifications lettered A, B and F.

As to specification C, the Appointing Authority established that Vassallo (and the others) was (were) ordered not to discuss the case with witnesses and family members. This occurred on March 25, 1985. The purpose according to Chief Stewart was to protect the integrity of the Internal Affairs investigation. However, that investigation was suspended during the first week of April when Chief Stewart learned that Patrick McNally was going to seek a criminal complaint. James McNally was not certain whether the telephone call from Vassallo occurred before or after the criminal proceeding was initiated. Consequently, I can not conclude that the conversation occurred during the pendency of the Internal Affairs investigation. Further the telephone call was initiated at a time, I infer, that the criminal process was at least being discussed. I conclude that it would be unfair to restrict Vassallo from discussing/ resolving that process before it began with the person, James McNally, who was in fact seeking the criminal complaint.

The best evidence regarding the reenactment of the incident between Vassallo and Redding is that it occurred on February 28, 1985, almost one month prior to the Chief's order.

I conclude that the Appointing Authority failed to prove specification C.

The evidence surrounding the video tape was sparse. There is no question that there was a video tape. Vassallo took possession of it and placed it in his locker. He removed the video tape and made a copy of it. He returned the tape when ordered to by the Chief. There was a departmental policy for video tapes, which were to be used in court cases. However, no evidence was offered as to when the policy was formulated and implemented nor that Vassallo was aware of it. In fairness it seems at worst that Sergeant Vassallo failed to request guidance for seeking permission to copy the videotape. This I conclude the Appointing Authority failed to sustain specification D.

Finally, Vassallo is charged with submitting a false report. The alleged falsity is that in the report, Vassallo said, consistent with his testimony (which I discredited), that he had kned Patrick McNally once in self-defense. This simply was not true. Regardless of whether Vassallo kned Patrick once or twice, this action clearly was not in self defense. The Appointing Authority sustained specification E.

Robert Vassallo has been involved with law enforcement for 17 years. Eight years with the Registry of Motor Vehicles and nine years with the Wilmington Police Department. For almost two of those years Vassallo held the rank of Sergeant. In addition, he is an attorney at law licensed to practice in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts. Given this background it can easily be said that Robert Vassallo knew better than to conduct himself in the manner that he did. The use of excessive force can not be justified nor condoned. The blatant lies to Bernard McNally and moreover to James McNally is "hardly worthy of the officer of a Sergeant of a police force." Appointing Authority's Memorandum p. 4.

The Appointing Authority argues that its disposition of demotion is reasonably supported by the evidence. The question before the Civil Service Commission is "not whether it would have acted as the Appointing Authority had acted but whether, on the facts found by the Commission, there was reasonable justification for the action taken by the Appointing Authority in the circumstances found by the Commission to have existed when the Appointing Authority made its decision."

Watertown v. Arria 451 N.E. 2d 443, 445 (1983). However as the Appeals Court note din Town of Dedham v. Civil Service Commission 483 N.E. 2d 836 "The question of modification of the penalty was not presented by the Arria record." at 837. Under G.L. c. 31 and 43 the Commission has the power to modify penalties See Faria v. Third Bristol Division of the District Court Department, 439 N.E. 2d 842 (1982). In order to properly modify a penalty the Commission is required to explain its reasons for modifications, which must be supported by the record.

There are no reasons for modification in the record. Consequently, I recommend to the Commission that it affirm the action of the Town of Wilmington in demoting Robert Vassallo from the rank of Sergeant to Patrolman.

Rep. Geoff Beckwith.

Hard Work and Results.

Geoff Beckwith has worked hard as our State Representative.

Geoff has kept in touch with us, held district office hours, hosted a weekly cable show, and responded to our thousands of letters and calls.

He has been a leader on environmental issues, passing legislation to protect the Ipswich River, managing the floor fight for the 1986 Hazardous Waste Emergency Cleanup Bill, and co-authoring the 1988 Toxics Use Reduction Bill.

Geoff has moved to make state government more efficient, calling for a freeze on state hiring and a continuing clampdown on state consultant accounts. He's even voted to reduce the legislative budget.

Of course, Geoff was also an early supporter of the drive to repeal the 7 1/2-percent surtax.

He has focused on the needs of our communities, fighting for local-aid increases, and helping Reading, North Reading, and Wilmington benefit from important state programs.

And now Geoff Beckwith is standing for re-election so he can continue to work for us on the crucial issues of environmental protection, education, fiscal responsibility and the state budget, automobile insurance reform, and much more.

Married to Drucilla Wood-Beckwith, Geoff is also a proud new father: their daughter Calley will celebrate her first birthday in November.

Geoff Beckwith. Hardworking. Independent. Effective. A State Representative we can count on!

*7.2.3 Number of Lots or Dwelling Units: The number of lots or dwelling units permitted within any PRD shall not exceed the larger of the numbers obtained by applying either of the following subsections:

*7.2.3.1 The number of lots obtained by dividing the total area of the tract, exclusive of land situated within the Flood Plain Zone A shown on the most recent "Federal Emergency Management Association" maps or wetlands as defined in MGL Ch. 131 Sec. 40, "The Wetlands Protection Act" by the minimum standard lot size permitted, in section 9.1.3 of the Zoning Bylaw as applies to the zoning district(s) within which the tract is located.

*7.2.3.2 The number of lots under standard subdivision upon which a single family dwelling could be constructed in the residential district(s) within which the tract is located.

7.2.4 Dimensional regulations

*7.2.4.1 In the case of a Planned Residential Development consisting of lots for detached single family dwelling units, the individual house lots shall be not less than one-half the minimum lot size allowed in the district, except that no lot shall be less than 6,500 square feet.

*a) The minimum distance between structures shall be twenty feet.

*b) No building or structure shall be located within twenty feet of a public way or boundary line of the development tract, and such area shall form a continuous landscaped buffer.

*b) No building or parking or other paved area shall be located within twenty-five feet of a public way and fifty feet of a boundary line of the development tract, and such areas, except for road, walkway or utility crossings, shall provide a continuous landscape buffer.

c) Other Regulations - To minimize departure from existing patterns of residential development, there shall be (1) no more than six attached dwelling units and no more than six parking spaces in any single structure; (2) no more than one unit shall be served by each building entrance; and (3) the maximum height of any structure shall not exceed two and one-half stories or 35 feet.

7.2.5 Streets and Utilities - All streets, sewers, drainage facilities, and utilities shall be designed and constructed in compliance with the Town of Wilmington Subdivision Rules and Regulations. Special exceptions to the subdivision standards may be authorized by the Planning Board in granting a special permit hereunder provided the Board determines such exceptions are in the public interest and are not inconsistent with the purposes of Subsection 7.1.

7.2.6 Common Open Space

*7.2.6.1 Minimum Common Open Space: The minimum common open space shall be fifty (50) percent of the total area of a Planned Residential Development consisting of attached dwelling units and thirty-five (35) percent of the total area when consisting of lots for single family detached dwelling units. It shall be provided that common charges are to be allocated among the dwelling owners in proportion to their ownership or beneficial interests in the corporation, non-profit organization or trust, and that each dwelling owner's share of the common charge shall be a lien against his real estate in the Planned Residential Development, which shall have priority over all other liens with the exception of municipal liens and mortgages of record, and the method by which such instrument or instruments shall be amended.

7.2.7 Limitation of Subdivision - No lot shown on a plan for which a Planned Residential Development permit is granted may be further subdivided, and a notation to this effect shall be placed on the plan of record which shall be recorded with the special permit.

(See Section 7, Planned Residential Development for special criteria.)

or do anything in relation thereto.

* Revised from current Zoning Bylaw.

Article 4: To see if the Town will vote to amend the Wilmington Zoning Bylaw by adding Section 5.4 "Inclusionary Housing Bonus" as follows:

5.4 Inclusionary Housing Bonus

5.4.1 In the residential districts the Planning Board may grant a special permit to allow additional residential dwelling units in accordance with the schedules in section 9.1.2 if a covenant agreement is signed and recorded with the special permit that the required percentage of the total number of units is assured to be affordable units in perpetuity in accordance with the Inclusionary Housing Policy adopted by the Town Meeting and in effect at the time of application for this special permit.

5.4.2 Affordable units will be compatible with and indistinguishable from, market-rate units in terms of exterior appearance, and dispersed throughout the development.

5.4.3 The Planning Board shall require that affordable units be included in lots or dwelling units released for sale in the same percentage as required for the entire project as phased.

And further to see if the Town will vote to amend the Wilmington Zoning Bylaw by adding Section 9 "Inclusionary Housing Policy" as follows:

SECTION 9 Inclusionary Housing Policy

9.1.0 In order to obtain a favorable recommendation, or where applicable, a favorable action, by the Planning Board, all new housing developments which gain an increase in density greater than that previously allowed by right in the zoning district in which it is located, shall provide affordable housing units, and shall comply with the policies in this plan.

9.1.1 Where an action of the Planning Board permits higher density, the owner or developer shall provide affordable housing units in accordance with Section 9.1.2. Those affordable units will be allocated as specified in Section 9.1.5 of this bylaw.

9.1.2 Schedule of Affordable Units

Percent Affordable Required	Developer provides all funding for affordable units
20 percent	Developer obtains subsidies through state or federal housing programs. Percentage of affordable units must meet state or federal housing program guidelines. (30% is the September, 1988 I.O.P. guideline.)
30 percent

9.1.3 The density of any proposed development will meet the following minimum requirements:

In Existing	In Existing
R-60 Zone	R-20 Zone
Area: 40,000 sq. ft.	13,000 sq. ft.
Frontage: 150'	100'
Depth: 150'	100'
Set Back: 40'	30'
Rear/Side Yard 20'	15'
Height: 35'	35'
Stories: 2 1/2	2 1/2

Hammerhead lots as defined in Section 5.3.4 of this bylaw will be acceptable.

If existing sewer line is within 1000 feet of proposed sub-division, the entire sub-division must be connected to sewer in accordance with the Town Sewer Master Plan.

9.1.4 The maximum annual increase allowed for a resale of an affordable housing unit is the original acquisition price plus an annual allowance for appreciation of value equal to the increase in the Consumer Price Index for the Boston area or the applicable regulations of the appropriate state or federal funding agency.

The Town shall monitor sales of all affordable units.

All units must be owner occupied with the exception of those units owned by the Wilmington Housing Authority.

9.1.5 The affordable units will be allocated in the following manner:

5% - Very low or low income units to be offered or donated to the Wilmington Housing Authority or to be purchased by the Wilmington Housing Authority.

40% - Very low or low income units to be purchased by eligible households.

55% - Moderate income units to be purchased by eligible households.

(Income requirements and sales restrictions are outlined in section 9.1.9)

If the Wilmington Housing Authority does not choose to purchase the full 5% allotted to them, then the developer shall increase the 40% of very low or low income units by the number of units not purchased by the Housing Authority.

After efforts to sell the type of housing units indicated above have proven fruitless, a developer shall request that the Town allow an amount comparable to the required affordable sales price of all affordable housing units not sold, be paid to the Town of Wilmington Affordable Housing Trust Fund. State or federal program requirements take precedence over this guideline if a state or federal program is utilized.

9.1.6 Building permits shall not be issued for the construction of any dwelling unit in the second 50% of the market rate dwelling units, in a specific phase until construction has begun on ALL the affordable housing units in that phase.

9.1.7 At the initial concept plan stage, the developer shall submit plans showing the number of affordable housing units, their approximate sale price and the method of financing in the preliminary site development and use plan.

At the stage of the application to the Planning Board, the developer shall submit specific data on sales prices of affordable housing units, a calculation of affordability based on current economic data, all of which shall be incorporated in the special permit. Where the affordable housing units are to be constructed under a federal or state subsidy program, a letter of commitment from the subsidizing agency shall be included.

9.1.8 Inclusionary units will be compatible with and as nearly indistinguishable from, the market-rate units in terms of exterior appearance, and dispersed throughout the development.

9.1.9 Comprehensive plan definition of households with incomes qualifying for affordable housing.

Very low

Income below 50% of Boston PMSA* median come

Low

Income 50 to 80% of Boston PMSA* median income

Moderate

Income 80 to 120% of Boston PMSA* median income

In determining qualifying incomes, the most recent data from the following source shall be used:

Median income for the Boston metropolitan area: As calculated by the Regional Economist, Boston Office, U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development.

For proposals using state or federal programs the income eligibility requirements of various state and federal programs for low and moderate income housing may differ from the comprehensive plan definition and may be used instead.

9.1.10 The average sale price of all affordable units shall be no greater than 2.5 times the median income of a three person family as defined by the Regional Economist, Boston office, U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development at the time of submission of definitive subdivision plans;

or do anything in relation thereto.

4.2.9 No use as an accessory apartment shall be permitted prior to issuance of a certificate of occupancy by the building inspector. A certificate of occupancy shall be issued after the building inspector determines that the accessory apartment is constructed in conformity with the approved plans and with the provisions of this bylaw.

Shawsheen Tech SPACE meeting Nov. 2

An informational meeting for parents of students interested in enrollment in the Shawsheen Program for advanced Career Exploration (Space) will be held Wednesday, November 2 from 7 to 9 p.m. at Shawsheen Tech.

A gifted - talented leadership and career awareness enrichment program servicing students in grades seven to 11, Space is open to students from Shawsheen and the school systems of the district towns. Now in its second year, Space will be expanded from two to five programs according to David Whalley, Space coordinator and Tech science teacher.

"We had a big, and positive response to the program last year," Whalley said. "Students did a needs assessment at the end of the program and were asked what else they would like to do. Coordinators and teachers of the gifted and talented were also polled," he added.

As a result, this year's program will not only explore the high technology fields of chemistry laboratory and electronics laboratory in a state of the art, interactive environment at Shawsheen Tech as they did last year. Three new programs will be added - theater arts, computers and Cad-Cam.

Whalley said a screening committee received application forms this week. Admission to the program requires a self-recommendation plus the recommendation of two teachers. The screening committee will rate the self-evaluation and teacher recommendation forms. Anyone interested in the program or who would like to tour the facilities is encouraged to attend the Parents' Night.

Space programs will run one afternoon a week for 12 to 20 sessions, depending upon the program. Each class is limited to 20 students, with most programs staffed by two instructors. Application deadline for chemistry and electronics is November 10, with those programs scheduled to begin the week of November 28. These two Cad Cam will be held at Shawsheen. The computer course will be run in Wilmington, and a Billerica location is being sought for theater arts. "This program is a collaboration of all our district communities," Whalley said, "so we wanted to have more locations involved. The new programs will begin January and February.

"Space is in the second year of a two year state grant. "Next year, we will ask the towns for funding to continue the program," Whalley said.

21 shops to display skills at Tech's open house

Visitors to the Thursday, October open house at Shawsheen Tech can view the moon and Mars through a telescope, get a scotopic sensitivity assessment and see trigonometry and geometry in action.

Academic programs will join the 21 shops in offering displays from 7 to 9 p.m. with students demonstrating vocational and technical skills. The English Department will show how students can get a scotopic sensitivity assessment and through the use of filters, some visual difficulties can be corrected to eliminate reading problems. A science classroom will be set up with the telescope facing the moon or Mars, depending upon the night sky on Thursday. Interesting demonstrations in trigonometry and geometric angles will be offered by the Math Department.

Most shops will be raffling prizes, which range from a car tuneup by the Automotive Department to a concrete planter from masonry, and baked goods from culinary arts to tool trays and candleholders from metal fabrication. Other prizes include luncheon for four at the Ram's Head Dining Room, a day of beauty in cosmetology, a brass hammer from the machine shop, and a car cleaning and waxing from auto body. Visitors must register for these prizes in the shop areas. A special drawing, just for eighth graders and their parents will take place in the cafeteria.

Students, teachers and graduates will be available in both vocational and academic areas to answer questions about the school and its programs. Guidance counselors will be on hand to discuss career and college opportunities for students with a variety of backgrounds and interests who choose Shawsheen Tech.

Seventh and eighth graders and their parents from the Shawsheen District are especially invited; other interested residents are also welcome.

Open house begins with an overview in the school cafeteria at 7 p.m. Late arrivals can see the presentation on videotape before beginning a tour. Visitors can pick up school maps for a self-guided tour, or request a student guide to visit special areas of interest.

Mini ice rink

For something different, those touring can stop at the air conditioning and refrigeration area to view a miniature ice rink. The health department will take blood pressures and give eye tests. Both college bound students and other computer buffs should stop in data processing, where visitors can sit at computer terminals and activate a program that matches students and colleges.

School sports and activities will be represented through a diving competition and synchronized swimming demonstration at the pool, a project adventure demonstration in the gym, cheerleaders in person and on videotape, and students representing Vocational Industrial Clubs of America (VICA), who will distribute information about this skill and leadership organization.

Public invited to John Wesley film

Sunday evening, October 30, the First Baptist Church of Wilmington will present the film "John Wesley: Preacher" at 6:30 p.m. in the church sanctuary, 173 Church St., Wilmington.

This film uses authentic locations in its recreation of a dramatic Wesley sermon. As the people gather to hear Wesley preach, a wealthy merchant pays off a group of thugs to break up the meeting. Wesley masterfully uses their taunts and challenges to highlight his preaching. In the end, the young men intent on breaking up the meeting, show a change of heart and contribute to aid the poor.

All are invited to attend. For more information call the church office at 658-8584.

Lowell Park supervisor to speak

The Middlesex Canal Association will hold a general meeting at the Lowell State Heritage Park, Mack Building, 25 Shattuck Street, Lowell at 2 p.m. Sunday, November 13 in the upstairs meeting room. The meeting is open to the public and free of charge.

The featured speaker will be Richard Scott, the park supervisor. Mr. Scott will talk about the Lowell State Heritage Park, and its role in interpreting and presenting the living history of the area. The meeting will be followed by refreshments and an opportunity to socialize with other members and guests.

To get to the Mack Building, follow the brown park signs from Route 3 and the Lowell Connector. Parking is available in the lot near the National Park Visitors' Center. The Mack Building is two doors away from the canal workers' memorial fountain, and has a huge drive wheel on display at its entrance.

All are welcome to go and meet the speaker, and to learn about the Middlesex Canal Association and its efforts to promote awareness of our regional heritage.

General Manager

New Holiday Inn to open next week

by Bill Conlon

The hoopla and noise will come later, but the new Holiday Inn in north Tewksbury will begin operations next week. Work crews are busy at the Highwood Drive facility in hopes of completing their tasks by early next week.

General Manager Julian Goossens provided this reporter with a quick guided tour of the new facility on Tuesday, and just a few details still need to be completed before the 237 room inn is opens for business.

Inside the main lobby, the marble floor is shined and ready, glasses and place settings grace the tables of Victoria's Restaurant just inside, and even the swimming pool and whirlpool have been filled.

Goossens said that a target date of November 1 has been set for the "soft opening" of the new Holiday Inn facility, but a grander affair is being planned for sometime after the first of the year. One problem, he said, is that many of the function rooms have already been rented.

The Tewksbury Garden Club's Christmas party is already planned for December 3 in the ballroom, Goossens said, but the room has not yet been carpeted and the 3.5 miles of lighted crystal beads that will decorate the ceiling is still in boxes.

Along with the 237 rooms, he said, the Holiday Inn will have 11 luxury suites, with wet bars inside, along with the function rooms.

The ballroom can be split into four separate function rooms, the manager said, and there also are two "board rooms" and two smaller function rooms available. Smaller functions may be held in the lobby dining and bar areas, he said.

Also included in the facility is an Old English style pub, just off the main lobby.

A huge kitchen, just below the main level, has air conditioning to make the room easier on the crew. Two walk-in refrigerators and one walk-in freezer line the walls. Just off the kitchen are the locker rooms and a break room for employees.

In one wing of the three-armed building is the swimming pool and whirlpool, which are both filled and awaiting patrons. A circular stairway descends from the pools down to a health club below.

A pair of wood-paneled elevators will carry guests to all five floors of the facility. Each of the rooms has its own sprinkler, smoke detector, and fire alarm. All 237 rooms are nearly completed, mainly with blue carpeting and drapes, and most of the furniture now in place. Only the hallways remain to be carpeted on a few of the floors.

Hundreds of minor details remain to be completed, from touching up the paint in some places to bringing in packets of sugar for the tables, so Goossens will have his hands full.

But starting early next week, the biggest and grandest facility in the town of Tewksbury will be ready to begin operations.

Wilmington High School goaltender Steve Holbrook scrambles back to make a save as Redmen move in during last week's 2-0 loss to Tewksbury. The Wildcats have kept their tournament hopes alive with seven victories this season.

Unbeaten streak at nine

WHS soccer girls streak toward tourney

The Wilmington High School girls' soccer team recently improved its record to 9-3-2 and continued their streak of being unbeaten in nine (8-0-1) consecutive games. The Wildcats need to win one out of the remaining three games to earn a birth in the state tournament in just their second year as a varsity team.

On Monday, the team traveled to Chelmsford and upset the second place Lions by the score of 2-1. Wilmington scored first, as junior Erin McKenna notched her eighth goal of the season on an assist from senior Debbie Dellascio at the nine minute mark. Chelmsford wing Amy Sousa tied the game seven minutes later on an unassisted goal. Neither team was able to score for the remaining 23 minutes as the game was deadlocked 1-1 at the half.

The second half started with Wilmington forwards McKenna, Dellascio and Andrea Ducey applying pressure, but strong play from the Chelmsford defense kept the Wildcats from scoring. Chelmsford countered with several scoring opportunities, but defenders Karen Lynch, Suzy Walsh, Ellen DeMarco and Katy Palm were able to keep Chelmsford scoreless in the second half.

The winning goal was scored by Debbie Dellascio, assisted by Cara Scalesse 33 minutes into the second half.

Outstanding play by Wilmington keeper Denise Cosgrove (15 saves) in the remaining seven minutes of the game, with help from Christine Bonarrigo, Barbar Langone, Ginny Cosgrove and Danielle Fay, assured the Wildcats of a victory.

Wednesday, Matignon traveled to Wilmington, only to be shutout a second time by the Wildcats. Goalkeeper Denise Cosgrove recorded her fourth shutout of the season and freshman Stacey Ouellette also helped in the net to keep Matignon scoreless. The leading scorers were Erin McKenna (nine goals, five assists) and Deb Dellascio (five goals, eight assists).

In another non-league contest,

Wilmington defeated Lynnfield, 5-2. The Cats took a 3-0 halftime lead with goals from Danielle Fay, Erin McKenna and Andrea Ducey. Barbara Langone, Debbie Dellascio and Suzy Walsh recorded the assists.

In the second half, freshmen Kim Russo and Julie Robinson scored their first goals of the season, and sophomore Ginny Cosgrove added an assist. Andrea DiLeo, Katie Finn, Krista Pagliarulo, Gina DeSantis, Tina Kelly and Stacy LaCorcia also played well for the Wildcats.

The Lady Cats final home game will be played at the Shawsheen School Monday, Oct. 31 at 3 p.m.

Wilmington Pop Warner

Rugged Wildcats edged, 19-7

The A' team Pop Warner Wildcats were defeated, 19-7 on Saturday night by Burlington, who came into the game with a 5-1 record. Running back Derek Fullerton scored the lone touchdown. This game was actually within reach going into the fourth quarter, but the A' team was unable to capitalize on some excellent drives.

The offensive line did an outstanding job opening up holes against a rugged Burlington line. Ryan Kane, Jason Morin and E.J. Merrill all looked good on the line.

Running back Tom Aprile had some excellent runs. Joe Catanzano had several excellent catches. On defense, Randy Johnson posted his usual super performance, running back a couple of kickoffs for big gains, along with a great game at linebacker. Also on defense, Chris Gray recovered a fumble.

Chris Sullivan had a good game at defensive back, as did Jason Morin and E.J. Merrill on the defensive line.

The Wildcats will travel to Lawrence to face a 2-3 Lawrence squad this weekend.

B' team rebounds

The Wilmington B' team Wildcats rebounded from last week's tough loss to Lincoln-Sudbury with a convincing 20-6 victory over Burlington to improve their record to 3-4 on the season.

Once again Wilmington's offensive and defensive lines completely controlled the line of scrimmage in leading the Wildcats to victory. Offensively, center Bill Coffill, guards Josh Levesque and Sam Ballou and tackles Jeff Morin and Clayton Swartz opened gaping holes, allowing backs Keith Parlsstein, Mike Alonardo, Dan Billou and Paul Bruno to have an easy time of it when running the football.

Again Wilmington with its strong running attack didn't have to pass much, but when they did quarterback Brian Tildsley found ends Joe Langone and Rick Hizzard for good yardage.

Defensively, it didn't matter what group of players the Wildcats had in there, as linemen Jack Doucette, Vinnie Strow, Steve Boivin, Jason Grady, Richie Muse and middle linebackers Nick Caruso and Andy Bower completely kept the Burlington offense in check.

Wilmington's touchdowns were scored by Dan Ballou, 35 yard pass and a 12 yard run, and Mike Alonardo, two yard run, two point conversion kick accounting for the scoring.

The player of the game was awarded to Bill Coffill for his outstanding job at the center position which he played for the first time due to an injury to starting center Joe Lyman.

The B' team's next game is against Lawrence on Sunday, Oct. 30 at 12:30.

C' team slips, 12-6

The C' team lost to Burlington,

12-6. This was a hard fought game the whole way. Offensively, running back Mike Gilbert scored the lone touchdown. The offensive line played well. Quarterback Dan Lutz had a good game.

Defensively, Steve O'Neill at linebacker had an excellent game, as did the defensive tackles Adam Grady and John Civetti.

Coaches Bob Ducharme and Chris Peabody, in a post game interview, had a high praise for the defense, commenting that "the boys were attacking the offense like a pack of junkyard dogs."

The C' team will travel to Lawrence Sunday, Oct. 30 to face a winless Lawrence squad.

D' team undefeated

The D' team remained undefeated with a 24-0 win over Burlington. Billy Harrison scored two touchdowns on a 37 yard run and a 70 yard interception, Eric Clancy on a one yard run and Wayne Francis on a seven yard run.

The D' team was led on defense by Steve Parson, Peter Vachon, Adam Frost, Jimmy Chryst and Jay Isberg.

On defense, good games were played by Chris DiJulia, Matt Garrett, Jimmy Butler, David Santini, Eric Stadnyck and Sean McNabb.

The D' team will travel to Lawrence Sunday, Oct. 30.

Wildcats sputter again, 21-0

A substitute quarterback gave a solid Wilmington High School football defense major problems as Andover rolled to a 21-0 victory over the winless Wildcats Friday night at Lovely Field in Andover.

Kurt Brucato ran for a touchdown and passed for two more as the home squad scored all of their points in a second quarter outburst.

The Wildcats could manage just one first down and 25 yards of total offense in going down to their sixth defeat of the season.

Saturday the Wildcats will have their best chance to crack the win column when they host winless Haverhill at Alumni Field Saturday beginning at 1:30 p.m.

WHS soccer
girls are super

The Wilmington High School girls' soccer squad is on an exciting roll, winning six straight games and going unbeaten (8-0-1) over nine contests. The Wildcat girls now have a 9-3-2 overall record and are on the verge of qualifying for the Eastern Mass. Tournament in just their second season of varsity play. See the story on this page.

Wilmington Youth Soccer highlights

Another rainout this Saturday, but the Wilmington Youth Soccer League did have some exciting games to report, both in-town as well as travel. Again, a reminder for soccer players to sign-up at the trailer if interested in playing on a travel team in the spring. Current travel team players don't worry, be happy, your team will again be playing in the spring. Under 16 or 19 players can call John DeMarco (658-5207).

Don't forget the important annual meeting Monday, Nov. 7. All parents and coaches are urged to be there to volunteer and help out next year. (Run for directorship).

Note: Fall scholarship dance, Friday, Nov. 11 at Villanova Hall; cost $15 per couple; time 8 p.m. Buy tickets at Trailer (at Shawsheen field) or at the door.

Wilmington Wolfpack
The boys' under 12 Wolfpack team maintained its even keel with another win (3-0) over Burlington IV, and a heartbreaking 1-0 loss to Medford, making their record 3-3. First the bad news.

The Middlesex League is in desperate need of referees for the fall program. Coaches or parents often must officiate, as was the case with this game. The boys had been thoroughly dominating, so when Colin Sullivan scored at the end of the first half, it seemed inevitable. However, the goal was disallowed when one of the makeshift referees had called a handball, which nobody heard, since he did not have a whistle.

In the second half, when some Wolfpack players thought the ball had gone out of bounds, a Medford player broke in to score on a breakaway. The pack had played a super game, with fullbacks Steven Holland, Chris DiJulia and Andy Kane keeping the ball 95 percent in the Medford end in the first half as well as halfbacks Ryan Hoffman, Scott Griffin and Kevin Tildley, maintaining the pressure with commanding ball control.

Now for the good news. The next day the Wolfpack played a makeup game against Burlington IV and they came out howling. Goalies Pat Mallon and Dave Bennett made a few saves, but watched most of the action down at the Burlington end.

The game was especially pleasing, since the scoring was done by a couple of kids who work hard, but don't always get the glory. Two goals by Kevin Kacamburas and one by Chris DiJulia was all the Pack needed to make their weekend.

The first goal was by Kevin early in the game unassisted, taking a ball up the left side with plenty of time to set up a nice, wide, high shot drawing first blood for the Pack. In the second half Chris scored with an assist from center-halfback Steven Holland. Again Chris took it down about 15 yards, scoring from the left side. The third goal was again by Kevin with an assist this time from Chris DiJulia. This also was a nice high shot from the left side.

Forwards Mike Caira, Tim Duggan, Justin DiPlatzi and Matt Muchlec continually kept pressure on Burlington, nearly scoring numerous times. Rory Murphy also had a fine game, pulling duty at both wing and halfback position. The Pack will be back in action this Thursday and this weekend, hoping to turn the even keel into a winning wave.

Boys' under 16
With two-thirds of the season completed, the team has posted an excellent record of 4-2. The success is due to hard work and a commitment to teamwork.

The season opener was against Woburn. Just before halftime Richie Barletta scored with the help of a great pass from John Lynch. Ten minutes into the second half Lynch crossed the ball to leftwing and Matt McManus headed it into the net for a 2-0 Wilmington lead.

Just three minutes later, Kevin DiGiovanni sent the ball 40 yards up the field to McManus, who broke in alone on goal and scored. Woburn got on the scoreboard five minutes later when they scored on a penalty kick. Woburn then closed the score to 3-2 when a long shot slipped past the Wilmington keeper, Chris Armata.

Chris dug in and prevented any other scores with many great saves. The final was a well earned 3-2 victory. John Martins played the first half as keeper and did a great job as well. Dave and Doug Lanzillo worked very successfully at halfback, while Bobby Surran and John Burke kept the defense solid from their fullback spots.

Wilmington hosted Chelmsford in week three. With five minutes to play in the first half, John Lynch was tripped in the penalty box. Jimmy DeMarco took the penalty kick for Wilmington and scored.

The second half started strong for Wilmington, as Matt McManus passed to Lynch for a goal at the two minute mark. Only 12 minutes later McManus scored with a great assist going to Dave Lanzillo. About eight minutes later Chelmsford's rightwinger scored to close out the scoring.

The 3-1 win was fantastic. John Martins played the entire game in goal, making one great save after another. The fullback core of Chris Armata, Mike Botte, Corey Masse and Kevin DiGiovanni kept frustrating most of Chelmsford's attacks. Gerard Forgett, Dave Dellascio and Anthony Bonarrigo worked hard at forward, mounting many scoring chances.

The boys visited Melrose the next week and posted a strong 5-1 victory. In just six minutes Wilmington scored when Gerard Forgett made a super pass to John Lynch for a goal. Midway into the half Melrose tied the score when the leftwinger pushed in a rebound. The 1-1 score lasted until halftime.

Once again Wilmington started the second half quickly. John Ciarmaglia passed to John Lynch for a goal that took only a minute and a half. Two minutes later Ciarmaglia set Lynch up for another goal that looked like an instant replay.

At the 24 minute mark Ciarmaglia got a nifty breakaway and scored Wilmington's fourth goal. Five minutes later Kevin DiGiovanni sent the ball upfield and Tommy Zaya beat the Melrose goalie to the ball. Tommy shot and scored just as the goalie knocked him down. It was a super effort. Doug Lanzillo, Richie Barletta and Jimmy DeMarco were great at halfback.

Week five was a game versus

Andover. At the 12 minute mark Wilmington's Jimmy DeMarco took a coren kick and scored. Ten minutes later Wilmington went up 2-0 when John Lynch passed to Dave Dellascio for a goal. Andover then scored three goals before the half ended. One goal came on a penalty kick. In the first 20 minutes of the second half Andover got four goals to take a 7-2 lead.

Despite the score, Wilmington never quit. They battled and scored their third goal when Tommy Zaya crossed the ball from right wing and Gerard Forgett headed it in for a well played goal. Dave and Doug Lanzillo did a good job at halfback. Bobby Surran, Mike Botte and Kevin DiGiovanni played very well at fullback, playing nearly every minute of the game.

Last Sunday Wilmington played Woburn again. In just two minutes Wilmington scored when Jimmy DeMarco took a corner kick which Matt McManus passed to Gerard Forgett for a score. Just before the half ended John Ciarmaglia sent a pass to Tommy Zaya for a super goal and a 2-0 halftime lead.

Midway into the second half Forgett assisted John Lynch for Wilmington's third goal. The game ended 3-0 for Wilmington. Anthony Bonarrigo played a fine game both at forward and halfback, helping the offense all game long. Corey Masse, John Martins and John Burke played great games at fullback and were key factors in the team defense. Chris Armata was in goal for the well-deserved shutout. He turned aside many shots, including a penalty kick.

Girls' under 12 II

The girls' under 12 II team has a fine 3-2 record thus far. The team has worked well together displaying true team spirit, and have been unselfish in their total play.

Week one of the season was a visit to Medford. Halfway into the first half Wilmington's April Ryan scored with a great assist going to Colleen Stokes. Right before halftime Joanie DeMarco of Wilmington got a breakaway goal, carrying the ball in from the midline. Ten minutes into the second half Joanie got her second goal from a pass by April. The game ended 3-0 for Wilmington.

Melissa Herlund, Jeanne Ficociello and Michelle White played very well as goalkeepers, stopping all Medford's attacks. Jenna Volpe was super at halfback and Dori Gordon did a fantastic job at forward.

The second game was home versus Westford. In just three minutes Wilmington scored when Joanie DeMarco passed to Colleen Stokes for a nifty goal. Only three minutes later Julie got an unassisted goal for Wilmington. At the 10 minute mark Colleen Stokes made the score 3-0 when Meghan Birmingham passed to her for a terrific goal.

At the midway point of the second half, Julie got her third goal of the game, once again assisted by Meghan. Just a few minutes later Wilmington got its fifth and final goal by none other than Julie Stokes, her fourth, unassisted.

The 5-0 victory was helped by strong fullback Brenda Souza, Anne Deislinger, Michelle White and Jeanne Ficociello were superb at keeping Westford away from their goal.

Game three was a 5-1 loss to a very tough team from Burlington. Fourteen minutes into the first half Burlington took a 1-0 lead. Wilmington however, would not be denied, as they battled back to tie the score.

Joanie DeMarco gathered a loose ball from in front of the net and scored to make the halftime score 1-1. Burlington controlled much of the second half, scoring four times.

Wilmington traveled to Melrose for its fourth game. Melrose started very strong, scoring four goals in the first 20 minutes of the game. Wilmington got on the scoreboard when Melissa Merrill assisted Colleen Stokes at the 25 minute mark. Just before halftime Julie Stokes got Wilmington's second goal with an assist to Joanie DeMarco.

The second half saw Melrose scoring twice for the 6-2 loss. Heather Smith and April Ryan played great games at forward, while Jamie Austin and Lauren Carter were super at halfback. Michelle White and Melissa Herlund shared the goalkeeping duties, stopping many Melrose shots.

The fifth game was a 5-1 win at home over Medford. It took just five minutes for Wilmington to get its first goal. Lauren Carter scored after a pass from Joanie DeMarco. Near the end of the half Lauren scored again, this time assisted by Julie Stokes. Right before the halftime whistle sounded, Colleen Stokes scored with an assist to Lauren. Soon after the second half started Colleen got her second goal when Meghan Birmingham gave her a great pass. Medford scored just three minutes later to make the score 4-1.

At the midway point of the half Julie Stokes got a breakaway and scored for the 5-1 final. Fullbacks Jeanne Ficociello, Brenda Souza, and Anne Deislinger were once again standouts during the entire game. Michelle White and Melissa Herlund worked in goal and each made many great saves. Halfbacks, Jenna Volpe and Dori Gordon and forward Heather Smith really helped keep the offense alive.

Jaguars vs Corvettes

Coach Ed Shaw reports that his Jaguars were able to score four goals in their victory over Coach Mike Niestepski's Corvettes. Goal scorers for the Jaguars were Ray Metcalf, Stephen Shaw, Marc Trinchera and Jeff Driscoll. Ryan Groves and John Visoske played well in supporting their team to the victory. Ken Hart assisted on Jeremy Antonuk's lone goal for the Corvettes.

Although in a losing cause, Steven Walsh, Paul Ware, Jeff

Niestepski and Matthew Foss played "above and beyond" the expected.

Firebirds vs Mustangs

Shawn Mahoney's goal, assisted by Brian McGinn was the lone score for coach Preston Holman's Mustangs. Despite excellent play by Tim Devlin, Scott Nolan and Mark Holman, they went down to defeat at the hands of Coach Palermo's Firebirds.

The play of Adam Miner, Ben Masse, Joey Palermo and Paul Savage provided the support necessary for Kevin Camell, Kyle Eaton and Robert Brisbois to ripple the nets for the Firebirds. Final tally - Firebirds 3, Mustangs 1.

Girls' under 14

Suns vs Comets

Despite the aggressive play of Laurie Graham, Christine Devlin, Kristine Robinson, Mandy Trout, Michelle Savoi, Jennifer Siracuse, and Jill Branley, the Suns were not able to break into the scoring column. Goal scorers Jenna Powers and Jessica White (two goals) were assisted by Tara Landers, Chrissy Palmer and Elsie Boisert.

Charlene DeStefano, Keli Mehigan, Kerry Anderson, Kate Moran and Adrienne Allen were supportive in helping the Comets to defeat the Suns, 3-0.

Planets vs Stars

Co-coaches Phil and Pattie Fenton report an oddity in their team's 3-1 victory over the Planets. Karen Buckley and Raquell Todd struck the ball simultaneously into the Planets' net to share goal scoring honors. In addition to this goal, Karen Buckley netted another goal; Laurie Johnson and Rebecca Todd rounded out the scoring for the Stars. Good team effort was put forth by goal keepers Danielle

Typhoons vs Tornados

Great field play by Jacob Groncmyer, Brian Godin, and Joe Moroney enabled Brian Thresher, Terry Boland and Steve Day to net a goal each for the Typhoons.

Cheerleading sprint

The Wilmington High School football cheerleaders sprint on to the field prior to a recent Wildcat game at Alumni Stadium. The Wildcats host the Haverhill Hillies this Saturday afternoon.

TMHS football

Redmen dodge a bullet, 23-20

The Tewksbury High School Redmen dodged a rather large bullet in MVC football action Sunday afternoon, escaping with a 23-20 victory over winless Haverhill (0-5-1) after bolting out to a 23-8 lead with 6:52 remaining in the third quarter.

The Redmen benefited from a non-call at the conclusion of the first half when a pair of TMHS defenders bumped a Haverhill receiver in the endzone as the pass fell incomplete. Another Haverhill march fell about one inch short of the goal line late in the third quarter.

Tewksbury's offense, led by senior quarterback Dave Boudreau (7-11, 142 yards), moved out to a 15-8 first half lead on a five yard scoring jaunt by Tom Aylward, a 66 yard Boudreau to Tom Bradley touchdown strike and a 22 yard field goal by Sean Wilson.

The Hillies clipped eight points off that margin when Mike Skafas scored from two yards out and Jeff DiBurro rushed for the two point conversion.

The Redmen took control again in the third quarter when Boudreau snuck over from the one and Sean Mackey took a two point conversion pass from the Tewksbury quarterback.

That was the extent of the Redmen offense, as the home club staged a furious rally to score 12 fourth quarter points.

DiBurro-scored from one yard out and quarterback Brendan Skafas (9-16-1, 139 yards) also bolted over from the one.

The TMHS leaders were receivers Bradley (3-83), Mackey (2-29) and Sean Conley (2-30) and running backs Aylward (15-83) and Tim Lightfoot (13-55).

Wilmington senior topics

Holiday dinner

Tickets to the Tewksbury - Wilmington annual holiday dinner dance may be picked up at the Center any day this week. Every senior going to the social must have a ticket. We received more tickets than we expected, so if you did not sign up you can still attend. The tickets are free. The dinner will be served at 7 p.m.

Bingo cancelled

Bingo will be cancelled this Friday as the Fair Committee will be setting up tables in the function room all day. Bingo will resume November 4 from 1 to 2:45 p.m.

Fair articles

Those who can be asked to take the items they have been making for the fair tables to the Center by Friday. The committee will certainly appreciate it. All articles will have to be priced and sorted by tables throughout the day. The volunteers who will be working on the spaghetti supper will be working in the kitchen Friday also. If all you good people making projects, working your fingers to the bone could get as many of them in on Friday that will help those seniors preparing the dinners. Don't forget to buy your ticket for the spaghetti dinner at the Center this week. They are only $3.00 each.

Committee grateful

The committee is very grateful to the large number of seniors who have sold so many of the chance books. Our seniors are the greatest. If by chance you have not had a chance to turn in your stubs they would be happy if you could drop them off this week.

With so many beautiful articles donated by all of you the fair should be our most successful, but the most important ingredient to finalize its success is for all of us to attend and take all our friends, family and money. See you at the fair this Saturday and Sunday.

Senator Kennedy's son

Senator Kennedy's son Teddy will be in town this Thursday, October 27. The Senator's office has asked if Teddy could speak to the seniors at the center at 10:15 a.m. and at the lunch site at 10:45. As senior citizens I am sure we have many questions for the senator on the large cuts made this year in programs important to all of us. Such as, 17,000,000 Federal dollars in the fuel program, millions more in Medicare, home care, food stamps and housing all Federal programs. Starting January 1, we have heard through the media that the elderly will receive a four percent or approximately $20 more in their Social Security checks. Not so because there will be an additional $7 added to our Medicare which is subtracted from the check before you receive it. That drops the increase back to $13.

This is the year the elderly voices should be heard if we hope to protect the programs the elderly before us have fought so hard for.

Fuel assistance

The fuel assistance program this year is being carried out in stages. The first stage has begun with sending applications all filled out to those who qualified last year. All you have to do is check them if all the information on the application is correct, sign the back in the two designated places and return to the address noted. If the letters under the income column is C for Social Security you will not need to send proof of income. If, however, next to the C is an I which designates pension, a copy of your pension check has to be included. If you have a pension and failed to include it last year do not put the I on the application, only include a copy of your pension. The community Team Work in Lowell will take care of it.

Second stage

The second stage of the program will be for those seniors who did not apply last year and want to apply this year. Those applications are not ready yet. Call the center if you will be applying, leave your name and telephone number. We will call you when they arrive. To qualify for assistance is as follows, the income for a household of one is from $7,213 to $10,098. For a household of two it is $9,663 to $13,528.

Council social November 9

The November Council on Aging therapeutic social will be held Wednesday, November 9 at the Tewksbury - Wilmington Elks. It is a dinner dance with the chicken pie dinner served at 7 p.m. Music for the evening will be provided by Chet Harden's big band sounds. A $2 non-refundable deposit will be required when signing up.

they follow subdivision rules, the construction of the road could be phased, but bonding is tied to the release of lots. A bond would be needed for a street opening permit and sewerage in case of default, added Stajczynski.

Neighbors maintained that the project, even with its list of conditions set down by the board of appeals, remains "insensitive" to neighbors' concerns.

"The town has not given us one single thing that we asked for," claimed Dorrance, who repeatedly inquired if residents were "beating a dead horse" at this point.

Dorrance, who acted as principal spokesman for his group, pressured the board for an answer to increased traffic which would be generated by the project and the through access road. He seemed to feel this issue, which concerns public safety, had not been addressed adequately by the town. Though Ballou and Michael McCoy stated they favor an alternative to a through road, Bresnahan maintained that issue was not negotiable. "Whatever has been agreed to between ourselves and the town we will do," he said.

Mario Alosco, one of the initiators of an appeal to overturn the board of appeals decision, reminded selectmen that other areas of town could be affected by the precedent being set by Shawheen River Estates. He said that neighbors, "in good faith," had trusted local boards and department heads to address abutters' concerns.

"When the board of appeals decision was made, we sat there with egg on our face; we got shafted," Alosco said.

Wilmington police news

There were 17 arrests in Wilmington during the period from October 18 to October 25. The police responded to 10 accidents and 33 alarms.

The police were called for six disturbances, two domestic problems, one case of break and entry, one fire and three cases of medical assistance. Six persons were put into protective custody.

One motor vehicle was stolen and two were recovered. There were nine calls for suspicious activity, one report of threats and four of vandalism. Trespassing complaints numbered two, traffic complaints one and trailbike complaints one. Two restraining orders were issued, and the police were called five times by individuals who had locked themselves out, either at home or with their car.

A Chelmsford man was taken directly to Woburn Court at 10 a.m. October 19, after he had been arrested on Woburn Street by Officer Paul Jepson. Kenneth Hudson, 33, was charged with operating without a Massachusetts license, and was also held on warrants issued by the state police and Chelmsford police.

An hour later Officer Pat King arrested Robert Wesinger, 25 of Billerica while on Salem Street. A traffic check revealed a warrant issued by the Billerica police. Wesinger was turned over to Billerica officers to be taken to the Lowell court.

Officer Charley Fiore, Wednesday evening arrested a Billerica woman, Beverly Olejnikow, 27 on Middlesex Avenue. She was charged with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of alcohol.

Narcotic officers and Wilmington police raided two Wilmington homes Thursday night after extensive investigation into activities at both homes. Search warrants had been obtained by Inspector Jepson at the Cambridge Superior Court, authorizing the search of 10 Brattle Street and 48 Glen Road.

Arrested at the Brattle Street address was Andrew Pupa, 27, of that address, who was charged with possession of a Class B controlled substance, marijuana. Mark Luongo, 27, of 557 Chandler St., Tewksbury was arrested at the same time and charged with possession of a Class B substance, cocaine. At the Glen Road house John J. Slattery, 32, was arrested and charged with possession, and possession with intent to sell a Class B drug. Rhoda Maley, 24 of 32 Tanglewood Avenue, Tewksbury was also charged with possession and intent to distribute cocaine. Both were also charged with conspiracy to violate the narcotic drug laws.

The arresting officers, Sgt. Shepard, Inspector Jepson and Sgt. Gable were assisted by members of the regional narcotic task force.

On October 21 Officer Jim Hanlon arrested Terrance Boos, 18 of Medford while on patrol on Lowell Street. Boos was charged with operating while under the influence of alcohol, and bailed for a Woburn Court appearance.

Saturday at about 2:30 a.m. Kevin Lange, of 25 Westdale Avenue, Wilmington was arrested by Officers Richter and Axelrod after a disturbance on Lowell Street and West Street. Lange was charged with assault and battery by means of a dangerous weapon, on a local man. The incident culminated a domestic problem involving several people.

On Sunday, October 23, at 1:30 a.m. Officer Larry Juergens arrested William Porter of North Street, Tewksbury after a traffic stop on Lake Street. A computer check revealed a state police warrant, issued by the Weston barracks.

At 2 a.m. Sunday Officer David Axelrod arrested John P. McCormick of Woburn, on Main Street. McCormick was charged with operating while under the influence of alcohol. He was bailed for a Monday morning appearance in Woburn Court.

At 2:15 a.m. October 25 Officer Buddy Hubby arrested Douglas Duboulay of Dorchester, on Lowell Street near Route 93. Duboulay was charged with larceny of a motor vehicle, and with possession of a Class D substance, believed to be marijuana.

A computer check revealed two warrants, issued by the Braintree police. A passenger in the stolen car was also arrested by Officer Hubby because of two outstanding warrants issued by the Natick police. Yvette Taronino of Lynn was held and then released to Natick police officers.

Woburn Water

"In terms of water we are as good as anybody in the whole state."

Mayor John Rabbitt

Part II

By PHYLLIS NISSEN

Japanese roses. Norway maples. Canada mayflowers. Philadelphia wood lilies. Woburn.

"If you ever really want to see something pretty," says Woburn Mayor John Rabbitt, "you should go down to Horn Pond Mountain in April or early May and see the wild flowers coming up everywhere."

More than 40,000 people by night. About 150,000 by day. Misconceptions about water that just won't quit. Woburn.

"I've done a lot of traveling and I've drunk water all over the world - and there's no better tasting water than the water I drink from my faucet," says Rabbitt.

"I jog and I'm a good water drinker. I like to get exercise, and I drink about seven or eight glasses of water a day - the water I get comes from Horn Pond."

Bright green catbrier, brilliant blue berries, pink lady's-slippers. Yellow stargrass, purple loosestrife. Toxic trials. Creamy white bells. Leukemia.

"I would say in terms of water we're as good as anybody in the whole state," says Rabbitt. "We have really solved our water problems. We haven't had a water ban in five years now. We brought in MDC water. We put a new well in Horn Pond. We're in the process of looping the whole city with MDC water in case we ever have an emergency."

"On top of that, our water and sewer rates are probably the lowest in the whole state, too."

Rabbitt's immediate, decisive actions during the toxic trials are typical of the way he runs his government and the way he cares about his people. And important in putting a lid on the water issues which keep resurfacing - according to Rabbitt, Woburn water has been a dead issue for a long time now.

"I came into office in '84. One of the first things I did was take the pumps out of the wells so no one would ever be tempted to start them up. The toxic trials began and there was all this negative publicity," he says. "Everybody was talking about the wells as if they were still open. No one would ever say, 'The wells have been shut down for five years.'"

"One Monday morning, I came in to work and I got a call from a lady who said she'd been sick all weekend, and she knew she was sick from drinking the water from the G and H wells because that's the way she used to feel when the wells were running," he continues.

"I told her that those wells had been shut down for six or seven years and she said, 'Oh no, I know you run those wells at night.'"

"You could not convince people that those wells were gone. So I took all the proper procedures and notified DEQE and EPA that I was going to knock the well houses down, not the wells. I didn't touch the wells. After the 30-day notice was up, I went over and knocked the well houses down."

"I put a cap over the wells and I knew before I did it that I was going to get into trouble - but it was the only way I could convince people that those wells were not still operating."

ROVING

PART ONE

Onward and upward with our gallivanting-around correspondent:

The AIDS crisis has really put a damper on socializing. Nearly everybody you talk to these days is afraid to even carry on a conversation with a member of the opposite sex, worrying that situating yourself face-to-face with another human being may result in picking up some deadly virus. Have you been to any parties lately? Have you noticed how people tend to talk into the side of someone's face, rather than directly to the person? It's got to be this AIDS thing. Either that or there's a rash of halitosis going around.

The funny thing is, as much as we're all so very much aware of the AIDS issue, most of us still enjoy socializing, and for those who are single and trying to find a suitable partner, the AIDS crisis hasn't actually curtailed socializing, it's just sort of changed the way they approach their socializing. This change in approach has created some pretty off-beat trends.

Take the current phone-line fad. Nearly every time you turn on your television set these days you're being bombarded with ads for this 900 number and that 900 number. There are 900 numbers for kids, 900 numbers for adults, and there is even an array of 900 numbers for those who have already given up on ever meeting somebody special.

about the towns

By PHYLLIS NISSEN

WINCHESTER — Winchester recently celebrated its 350th anniversary with a full day plus of activities involving Winchester Hospital, senior citizens, children, and absolutely everyone who wanted in on the fun.

There were road races, fun runs, flea markets and folk dancers; puppets, ponies and plays. "Ben Franklin" dropped by. Voter registration as well as an Olde New England Towne Faire took place on the Common. And there was dancing - demonstrations and participation, square dancing and dancing in the streets.

All of the above was topped off the next day by "Winchester's Grandest Ever Parade of Parades!"

STONEHAM — Fifty pizzas, cartoons, three ballerina teddy bears, and the generosity and true grit of several Stoneham business people are transforming the Square into a garden spot even as you read this.

The members of the Stoneham Chamber of Commerce Beautification Committee are up to their elbows in dirt and donations. So far, they've planted at least 200 plants in their mini-park and are looking forward to transforming the Main St. median strip as well.

Want to dig in, too? Say it with more than flowers - send your donations to the committee, P.O. Box 1, 157 Main St.,

Stoneham, Mass. 02180.

LYNNFIELD — Serving People in Need (SPIN), a Lynn-based non-profit organization, is looking at 18 acres of land in Lynnfield as the site of housing to benefit homeless families, children and the elderly.

SPIN was formed about eight months ago and is represented by a 13-member board of Lynn residents. The land, owned by the Lynn Water and Sewer Commission, would be the site of shelter or infill housing.

Infill housing is run by the state and administered by the local community. The houses are sold to low and moderate income families in the belief that if they own them, they'll take good care of them. Financing is arranged through private banks and the town is able to generate a tax base from the property.

NORTH READING — North Reading residents are tired of trekking to Wakefield or Andover in search of a playground for their children. Margie Salt and Janice Sullivan are the new co-chairs of the North Reading "Playground Committee" and are looking for support and input for the project from other town residents.

Their goal is to construct a wood playground and picnic area - a recreational area for all ages - "hopefully by the fall of 1989," and to raise between $35,000 and $50,000 within the next several months.

The group's first fundraiser, a dance at the Knights of Columbus Hall, will be held this Friday.

WOMEN SHOPPING FOR SPORTING GOODS

For years, a noteworthy gender gap has existed between purchasers and users of sporting goods in the United States. Though women number fewer than one-third of the users of sporting goods, they make more than half of all purchases - $17 billion annually - according to the National Sporting Goods Association (NSGA). This irony hasn't been lost on the retail community, according to Thomas B. Doyle, NSGA's Director of Research & Information.

"Sporting goods retailers are changing store design and layout to entice female buyers," says Doyle. "They're creating stores which maximize service, provide product information and include aesthetics that appeal specifically to women consumers."

John Chipman, president of Chipman Design Limited, a Chicago-area architectural firm specializing in store design, says that the store's "look" plays a critical role in women's purchases, though its effect on men's purchases is less relevant.

"To grab women shoppers' attention, retailers must concentrate on aesthetic details of their stores," says Chipman. "Cosmetic and visual features of store decor, such as carpet, color patterns, walls and ceilings are significant to female shoppers, but not as critical in drawing male shoppers, who often come into a store for a planned purchase."

Doyle says the most troublesome store design area for sporting goods retailers concerns the merchandising of "hard goods," - sports equipment - to women buying for men. He notes that one successful way to present hard goods to women shopping for men is through emphasis of company logos. Generally, this is accomplished through enlargement of logos and signage throughout the store.

"Women react to logos the same way men do," says Doyle. "They see them in magazines and on TV, and they recognize and act on these familiar symbols."

Soft goods - sports clothing - for men are considered much easier to market to women. Chipman says that most retailers now put activewear near store entrances in a mall to draw women buyers. They place clothing on fixtures so that items face out to the shopper, rather than "shoulder-side" out. And, they "color block," a technique that groups clothes according to color rather than size. This is done to grab the shopper's attention and to present an aesthetically more pleasing display.

DICTIONATION FALLS OUT OF FAVOR

As more and more managers learn to do their own typing, vendors of dictation equipment are finding it increasingly difficult to get a foot in the office door. A report out this month from What to Buy for Business - the consumer guide to office products - points out that dictation is one of the slow-growth areas of an otherwise booming business equipment market.

The report says that this is because attitudes in the office are changing. Managers prefer to have a PC on their desk, and secretaries have ambitions that go beyond being tied to a typewriter.

Says publisher John Derrick: "Our research shows that an increasing number of managers find it quicker to do their own typing. It slows down if they have to dictate a letter, pass the tape to a secretary and then wait for the typed version to be returned to them, and proofed. But only three years ago, there was still a widespread stubborn reluctance among predominantly male managers to learn to use a keyboard."

New attitudes towards typing haven't penetrated all companies, however. So the What to Buy report evaluates over 150 models in the dictation market, ranging from low-end portables to sophisticated desktops for

Woburn water

From S-1

"Everybody got mad at me," he says. "The judge got mad at me, the plaintiffs got mad at me, the defendants got mad at me - I think the only thing that saved me is that they were all mad at me. They all said it hurt their case."

"I knew that I was going to be hassled over it but I thought it was in the best interests of the residents of the City of Woburn that I do it. So I did it - and no one ever complained about drinking bad water over there since."

As for the incidence of leukemia in Woburn, Rabbitt is as perplexed as anyone else. "I can look at a set of figures about the number of leukemia cases and be optimistic, and other people can look at a set of figures and be very pessimistic," he says. "I'm not smart enough to know if there is a problem. If you have one child die from leukemia, that's a problem."

"I just don't know, and nobody else knows either," he continues. "There are too many pretenders out there who say they know. I personally have done everything I could to find out what is going on. I've gone out and I've dug up water pipes and had them analyzed, and you can't really find anything out."

"We've got a health study going on now," he says. "As a matter of fact, if it weren't for FACE - whose president is Gretchen Latowsky from Reading, an absolutely super person - nothing would have been done. It just would have been passed off. I really compliment the group for their interest and their tenacity."

The people in East Woburn - like the residents in many area towns - now drink water from the Boston Water Resource Authority. "It's not as good as the regular city water from the Horn Pond Valley," says Rabbitt. "One of the most natural resources we have is Horn Pond and right now we're in the process of revitalizing it, bringing it back, making it more environmentally sound."

"We're putting in a new dam which is going to have the capabilities of cleansing the pond from the bottom, and we expect within a couple of years you're going to see some nice clear water down there."

Rose pink dogwood. White and black oak. Coppery, glossy, rusty. Spiraling. A botanical gold mine.

"Horn Pond Mountain itself is probably one of the most unique horticultural areas east of the Rocky Mountains because there are flowers down there that are unique to the mountain itself and are not found anywhere else in the world," says Rabbitt.

And he is by no means alone in his rhapsodies about Horn Pond Mountain. The spring-summer 1986 edition of "Wild Flower Notes," published by the New England Wild Flower Society, is entirely dedicated to the Horn Pond Mountain Floristic Survey, begun in November 1984.

Sixteen people spent more than 2,000 work hours on the site, documenting over 600 species, rare and new. Project participants included Louise Ahearn and Carolyn Gove of Winchester, and Pat Brady and Bill Larkin of Woburn.

The project was encouraged by the Nature Conservancy, Massachusetts Natural Heritage Program, many Boston area colleges and universities, and the Winchester and Woburn Conservation Commissions. As a result of the study, Horn Pond Mountain has been recommended as a critical natural area for state protection.

"Rising 237' above sea level, the monadnock named Horn Pond Mountain occupies approximately 40 acres in southwestern Woburn and adjacent Winchester," "Wild Flower Notes" begins. "... The prominence is the highlight of a 500-acre conservation area which contains the 133-acre Horn Pond, marshland, an orchard, fields, forests, a revegetated sandpit, and two major brooks which flow into the pond from the west."

In the 19th century, popular excursion tours ran via packet boat from Boston to Lowell along Middlesex Canal. Visitors alighted at the Horn Pond House, on the present site of the Clapp Elementary School, from which they could row to the island. Music, dancing and an impressive view were theirs from 1803 until 1853 when the railroad made its mark. Short-lived recreational enterprises in the 1920's and '50's brought skiing to the mountain.

Today, local camera, trail and bird clubs hold classes there in an oasis which Betsy Lyman captures nicely in "Wild Flower Notes." "The walk from Lunch Rock to the wall would take less than two minutes providing you did not pause or take any of the alluring detours," she writes. "This same walk took me a year to complete and could actually take a lifetime and still be rewarding."

Raspberry, bayberry, cherry, honeysuckle. Hoary mountain mint. Butter-and-eggs. Lacy asparagus. Four-leaved milkweed. Wild sarsaparilla. Bittersweet. Woburn.

"I've worked in a lot of places including New York City on Fifth Avenue," says Rabbitt, enthusiastic as always about his city and the direction in which it's moving. "But I have never had a more beautiful or unique office than this one that I'm sitting in right now."

"And I've never met or known nicer people than the people in Woburn."

Adopt a dog

Adopt a new dog or puppy that is. The Animal Rescue League of Boston urges all able persons to participate in National Adopt-a-Dog Month during the month of October. Sponsored by the American Humane Association, Adopt-a-Dog Month is a national attempt to increase dog and puppy adoptions to humane organizations during October.

Dog adoption is a positive decision in every way possible. The addition of a dog to a household can teach children the responsibilities involved in the proper care and feeding of a pet, supply companionship to a single person young or old, and improve the quality of lives for the new owner and the dog that has been taken from a humane society and given a second chance.

If you have the love and the time to give to a homeless dog or puppy, please visit one of the four Animal Rescue League of Boston adoption centers today. For more information call 426-9170.

School notes

by phyllis nissen

—Are the kids milking this for all it's worth? North Reading School Business Manager Roger Young has invited parents to taste for themselves whether complaints about sour milk at the Hood School are justified.

School officials insist the milk is the same as all other school milk and is not sour. Parents feel their children's complaints "are not imaginary."

If a child feels that his or her milk smells or tastes sour, there is now a system in place for an adult to verify the milk's status.

Young welcomes this taste test and asks only that parents "sign in at the principal's office."

Although all the milk is the same, the Hood milk deemed sour happens to be the very milk sold to students who do not buy complete meals, and is stored separately. Is there a clue here? Can a straw vote be taken? Will there be a part II in the saga of the sour milk?

Will grapes be next? —Private donations, local businesses and high school students themselves have raised $3,000 for the Burlington Scholarship Foundation so far, according to foundation chairperson and former school committee person Joan Miles. In fact, a penny drive at the high school raised $1,909 of the money.

And this total doesn't even include the proceeds from an intergenerational dance held recently at the Marriott with tickets at $50 for adults and $12.50 for kids.

Michael J. Fox and, by the way, worked as an extra in the film "Kennedy-Fitzgerald" while it was being filmed in Boston.

Turner's role is that of a passerby walking hand-in-hand with a sailor outside a U.S.O. club - which JFK is exiting - in England during WW II. Fox's wife is starring in the production.

—Not necessarily school notes: Please note: We have received the following letter via the Stoneham Independent regarding the following description of life in the fast lane during Woburn Mall's recent 10th anniversary celebration.

The description: "On a quest for a G.I. Joe book and velcro Jox, Mom and son amble down the path and around the corner, pedestrian traffic strolling beside them."

The letter: "Att: Editor: I noticed with pleasure the mention of our product in the attached clipping.

"Although I appreciate the fine press, I am concerned about your use of VELCRO. VELCRO(R) is a registered trademark, which identifies our brand of hook and loop fasteners, and is not a proper substitute for generic names such as 'hook and loop fasteners' or 'touch fasteners'."

"I would greatly appreciate it if you would pass along to your people the enclosed brochure on trademark usage.

"Thanks again for the mention.

"Sincerely, Jean Velasquez, Trademark Administrator."

Learning to cope with fear

Individuals of all ages can suffer from agoraphobia which is a fear of having an anxiety attack. This fear of fear itself can cause people to avoid particular places or situations that they believe could lead to an anxiety attack. It can restrict the lives of individuals to such a degree that they might completely avoid shopping malls, restaurants or any crowded area from which they fear escape would not be possible.

To help people manage their anxieties and regain control of their lives, the Human Services Department of New England Memorial Hospital (NEMH), Stoneham, is beginning a new program, the Therapy Group for Agoraphobics. After learning techniques to manage anxiety, participants will be exposed gradually to situations that previously had provoked feelings of fear. Individuals will gain support from other group members with the same problem.

The 10-session group will meet on Thursdays from 10-11:30 a.m., beginning in November. It will be led by Dr. Carolyn Keefe, LICSW, Ed.D., a staff psychologist at NEMH, Private.

Return of the Dinosaurs at the museum

The Boston Museum of Science is proud to announce the arrival of 10 Malasaura dinosaur hatchlings. Mother and babies all appear to be doing fine. The Malasaur, or "good mother lizards," hatched from large eggs, were thought to have been warm-blooded, a trait rarely associated with dinosaurs.

Alongside the dinosaur nursery, a mother Euoplocephalus and her two young overlook the neighboring nest. These tank-like creatures from the Ankylosaurus family, moved very slowly but used their knobby tail as a huge war club for protection.

These dinosaur families join six older specimens in "Return of the Dinosaurs," an exhibit of lifelike, moving dinosaurs currently on display until November 27 at the Boston Museum of Science.

Shows only grows on the North side of trees in open, dry country, not in the forest or on lowlands.

"Fast for World Harvest"

FAST NOV. 17 FOR WORLD'S POOR

More than a million Americans support Oxfam America, a Boston-based agency funding development and disaster relief in 31 poor countries, and will host the 15th Annual "Fast for World Harvest," to raise funds to fight hunger and poverty in the countries where Oxfam America works.

The Fast will take place November 17, 1988, the Thursday before Thanksgiving.

After providing relief for this year's worst disasters in Bangladesh, Jamaica and Sudan, Oxfam America is counting on funds raised through the Fast to combat the "disaster after the disaster" — hunger, poverty and homelessness. More than one million fasters will give up their meals and donate the money they would have spent on food to Oxfam America. Among the sponsors of this year's Fast are Dith Pran whose story was told in the movie "The Killing Fields," Caesar Chavez, Coretta Scott King and David Byrne of "The Talking Heads."

For information on Fast for a World Harvest activities in your area, call Oxfam America today at 617-482-1211.

MFA OPENS JAPANESE GARDEN

An authentic Japanese garden constructed at the Museum of Fine Arts, Boston was opened to the public on October 25. Named Tenshin-en or The Garden of the Heart of Heaven, the garden replaces the interior Japanese garden that was removed from the Asiatic galleries during the renovation of the Asiatic Wing that was completed in 1982. The extraordinarily beautiful garden, Tenshin-en, is located on the north side of the Museum. According to Alan Shestack,

Director of the Museum of Fine Arts, Boston, "Tenshin-en is named in honor of one of the first curators of the Department of Asiatic Art (1906-1913), Okakura Kakuzo, also known as Okakura Tenshin. This contemplative garden is an important addition to the Museum's world-renowned Asiatic Collection. New England's landscape is symbolized throughout the garden. Rocky coastlines, deep forests, soft hillsides and craggy mountains are abstracted and recreated to remind viewers of the beauty and diversity of this region."

Tenshin-en is a contemplative viewing garden in the karesansui style, harkening back to Zen temple gardens of fifteenth century Japan. Kare means "dry," san means "mountain," and sui means "water"; thus it is a "dry mountain water" garden or dry landscape garden. Visitors enter through a roofed gate (kabuki-mon), built in Kyoto of Japanese cypress and reconstructed on site by carpenters from Japan using time-honored methods. The wall surrounding the garden is a modern interpretation of a Japanese mud-and-twig wall, capped with baked-clay roof tiles imported from Kyoto. A curved path of traditional design leads the visitor to a terrace. Visitors may wash their hands at the water basin (chozuachi), purifying body and mind as preparation for contemplating the garden. After viewing the garden from the stone terrace, visitors may leave by the stepping-stone path to the Japanese gate, spiritually refreshed and renewed.

DO RIGHT BY WHALES

The term "extended family" takes on a whole new meaning with the New England Aquarium's "Adopt-A-Right Whale" program. By adopting a right whale you will learn about the world's rarest whale while supporting research and conservation efforts on behalf of this endangered species.

You can adopt an individual right whale for $45 or create an instant family by adopting our mother of the year, Stripe, and her calves for $100.

Your tax deductible contribution entitles you to: an 8x10 photo of your whale (and wallet-size photos of the calves); a composite drawing of your right whale showing all of the features used to identify it; scientific illustrations of a right whale; a biography of your whale and its sighting history; and a history of New England Aquarium right whale research programs and goals.

You can support the Aquarium's research efforts by opening your home to a North Atlantic Right Whale today. For more information on how to "Adopt-A-Right Whale" call 973-6582.

LECTURE SERIES ABOUT WHALES

Explore some of the Earth's most mysterious creatures during the New England Aquarium's fall Lowell Lecture series, "Whales in the Balance," Friday evenings at 7:45 in the Aquarium's auditorium.

These lectures will present hard won secrets about life in the wild, share the newest insights into whale behavior and family life, and offer a glimpse into our planet's future and what it will be like sharing the Earth with whales in a world where space and resources are rapidly disappearing.

Lectures are free and open to the public. Advance tickets are available by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope indicating the lectures and the number of tickets. Advance ticket holders will be seated first, followed by non-ticket holders. Mail reservation requests to: Lowell Lectures, New England Aquarium, Central Wharf, Boston, Ma. 02110-3309. These lectures are made possible by a generous grant from the Lowell Institute.

Lecture titles are as follows: November 4 — Whale Extinction or Recovery: Lessons From Gray and Right Whales in Northern Seas; November 18 — Dolphin and Ape Societies Compared; December 2 — Sharing the Earth with Whales; December 9 — Rescue of the Stranded Whales; and December 16 — Dolphins: Communication and Cognition.

For further information, call (617) 973-5213.

SOFTWARE FOR COLLECTORS

Compu-Quote, the leading publisher of software for collectors, is the only company dedicated exclusively to collectibles software. Entering its tenth year, Compu-Quote has assembled a variety of software for coin, stamp, and baseball card collectors available in Macintosh and IBM compatible formats, as well as versions which run on Apple IIE, IIC, and Apple IIGS computers.

Compu-Quote's programs, designed for ease of use and minimal data entry, feature a built-in database containing complete descriptions and recent market prices for items in each of the collectibles area. In addition to inventory value information, easy-to-generate reports give collectors the date and price of items bought and sold, profit percentage, and a "wish list" of items needed to complete a collection. The programs automate the bookkeeping process for investment tracking, collection control, tax, insurance and estate planning purposes. Compu-Quote's COINS-PLUS package includes valuations for more than 2,300 U.S. coin issues in most A.N.A. grades using convenient Standard Coin Numbers to instantly show current market values.

The STAMPS package is available to collectors of United States postage stamps and lists nearly 2,700 different issues with retail pricing for nine grades — all indexed by Scott's Catalogue Numbers. Other versions of this package are available for collectors of the stamps of Canada, Great Britain, Germany, the United Nations as well as U.S. Plate Blocks. STAMPS-WORLD is a generic version that is also available for use by topical and world-wide collectors.

CARD-FAX covers all of the baseball cards issued by Topps, the leading manufacturer of sports cards. 27,000 varieties of their cards spanning the last forty years are fully described and priced. Other versions are available for collectors of Donruss and Fleer, as well as new versions for Score, Bowman and Goudey baseball cards.

A free 24-page illustrated catalog, "Software for Collectors," describing each of Compu-Quote's programs, is the first ever published exclusively for the collectibles marketplace, and may be ordered by calling toll-free 800-782-6775, ext. 55, or in California 818-348-3662, ext. 55.

If you have knowledge of an event of interest to all, write, care of this local newspaper and tell us all about it. Our fascination takes in the need for help to the world's hungry as well as the life of whales on the high seas — and all there is between those two concerns.

Woodchips

By ANTHONY MANCONI

From time immemorial the Italian excellence in the arts has been well known, especially in the fields of music, painting and sculpturing. They are also envied for their "dolce vita" way of life, their sincere friendliness and their eagerness to love, live, laugh and eat. The first word an Italian baby speaks is "mama." And, the most frequent word a mother says to her child is "mangia, mangia, eat, eat." The love of good food is perhaps the reason the Italians are among the best cooks, chefs and bakers in the world.

I worked in a bakery years ago making Italian bread but I got fired for "loafing." Roger Moore was a pretzel bender, but had to quit because he kept getting tied up in knots and it took three days to straighten Roger out. Officer Kevin Fisher (my nephew) worked in the "cop-cake" department. Bobby Giguere didn't last long making pizzas. The cardboard boxes they were put in tasted better than the pizzas. A lady walked in one day and asked Jimmy Serra, "How much is your pound cake?" Jimmy replied,

"16 ounces." I remember when an irate woman exclaimed to Johnny Ave, "Look, I found this fly in my raisin bread!" "So What?" Johnny snapped. "Give me the fly and I'll give you two raisins." We formed a "Bakery Shop Quartet" and called ourselves the "Coconut Squares." The group consisted of Blackie Vega, Jimmy Bruce, Bobby Kelley and me. We sounded better when the "basses" were loaded and the other two were "half-baked."

Dick Midwood of Reading told me that he has been taking up medicine for three years. "Gee," I said, "one more year and you'll be a doctor." "Not really," Dick replied, "I work in a pharmacy in Reading - my job is to take 'up medicine' from the basement store room and put it on the shelves upstairs. Dick Liberace of Winchester told his girl friend, Susan, that he could see right through her. I'm not a bit surprised because Dicky is an "x-ray expert." The ultimate feeling of rejection for me was when I played "Hide and Seek" as a child, and no one cared to look for me. Kenny Takaki read the copy so far and said to me, "Woodchipper, why don't you quit while you're behind?"

I would like to add class to this column so I welcome the following new Wilmington school teachers, Janet Altobello, Beryl Lynch, Susan Fitchett, Deborah Fuller and Leanne Sadowski. They were welcomed aboard by Supt. John Stella, School Committee Chairman Dr. Michael Thomas, Maureen O'Hara, Sandy Arciero, Carol Marquis and Vita Marie Graham. Church notice, "Rummage Sale next Saturday." Remember ladies - bring something that you have no further use for, but is too good to throw out. This is a wonderful opportunity to bring your husbands.

The State Police raided a bookie parlor. Four of those present were brought before a judge. The first one said, "Your honor, I'm a locksmith and I was trying to make a 'bolt' for the door when a trooper snapped the cuffs on me." The second gentleman said, "I'm a carpenter and I was repairing a loose floor board when I was 'nailed.'" The third, an electrician, said, "I was changing a burnt fuse and when the lights went on I was 'shocked' to see a trooper." The last man said, "I'm a plumber and I was trying to unblock a plugged up drain when a state trooper 'flushed' me out." The judge had a keen sense of humor so he kept them in court until "twenty-to-one" in the afternoon and each had to read a passage from the "Book of Numbers" and then they were set free.

Woodchips now continues for those who are still with me, "Woodchip's Personality Winners": Florence Gosselin R.N., Marie Baratta, Mae Holland, Gale O'Malley, Carrie Mooney, Kenny Binding, Thomas and Kathleen Pecora, Dr. Russell Carpenter, Joseph and Chickie Aldo, all of Winchester; John Barbas of Arts and Crafts of Woburn; Michael, John, Richard and their beautiful sister Siobhan Curran (their grandfather, Michael Curran, was a writer for the Woburn Times); Tony Angelucci and his lovely manager, Tracey Hennen of Russell Farm, Woburn; Bonnie Coombs of Coombs Furniture, Wilmington; Lenny Pienta of Crystal Coin Inc., Wakefield; Judy O'Connell, Suzanne Deck, Gina Martiniello, Mike Ella and handsome Walter Surrutte, all of Wilmington.

My father never complained about wearing one of those early model hearing aids about 25 years ago. It had a battery pack and an amplifier that went in his shirt pocket and a cord that went to the ear piece. "The best part of it," he always boasted was "turning the darn thing off during one of those long-winded church sermons."

Does anyone know the answer to one of life's great mysteries? Why is it that a paperboy can pitch a no-hitter in a little league baseball game but can't hit the front porch with the evening paper? My cousin, Maureen O'Donnell, went on a three week diet and lost 21 days. She finally discovered an idea that did wonders for her. She pasted a picture of a beautiful bikini-clad young woman inside of her refrigerator door. (It was the ideal figure that she hoped to attain.) It worked like a charm for Maureen for she lost 15 pounds in one month. However, during the same period, her husband Danny peered inside the refrigerator so often that he gained 22 pounds.

Folks, do you see greatness in a seed? Can you visualize colorful flowers or delicious vegetables? Can you picture a tall, towering, majestically beautiful tree when you look at a seed? Do you see greatness in a child? Can you envision that he or she someday may become a world renowned musician, scientist or a devoted father or mother? Do you see greatness in a smile? Can you see beyond that priceless gift and recognize the light of encouragement, the ray of hope or the warmth and love that's behind a smile? The wonderful thing about a smile is that we never know where it will end, how many lives it will enrich and how many burdens it will ease. Folks, that is the reason, purpose and hope of Woodchips. That's why I mention many people and recognize their achievements in this column. It affords me the opportunity and gives me the honor to let them know "I love them."

Laughter is the best medicine. It stirs up the blood, expands the chest muscles, electrifies the nerves, clears the cobwebs from the brain and rehabilitates your whole body. With that in mind folks, get your tickets early for the third annual Woburn Elks' Ballet Recital. There will be enough laughs to last anyone a lifetime. Just to see Jimmy Quinno, Bill McGarr and Warren Clement wearing tutus will be worth the price of admission. Retired state trooper Charlie Coe of Woburn said to me, "I know that you were in the service - you walk with a military 'gait' - but your hindges are getting a little 'rusty.' I am proud to mention that Siobhan Curran is my "Star of the Week."

HALLOWEEN

The quiet stillness of the night is shattered by the ringing bell. My dog springs up in awful fright, who has disturbed us time will tell.

I switch the outside light to see, just who might this late caller be. The open door reveals to me, a pirate who comes up to my knee.

"Trick or Treat" is his demand, I dare not think what he may do. I dash to get my special brand of candy for his buddies, too.

Oh, Lord, protect him on this dark night, May he grow in wisdom and never doubt When a ringing bell makes him jump in fright.

That's what Halloween is all about.

heavy-duty users. The best-rated brands in the report were Olympus, Sanyo and Norelco. All three scored highly on the basis of performance, features and value for money. Equipment sold by market leaders Dictaphone and Lanier was described as "Good, but too expensive for most users."

The report points out that there are no longer any U.S.-made machines. American brand names, such as Dictaphone, cover equipment made entirely in Japan by JVC and Olympus. In fact, there are only four suppliers on the U.S. market that manufacture all the machines they sell: Olympus, Panasonic, Sanyo and Sony.

Finally our friend had to take some drastic measures. He explained: "I said, all right, let's have dinner. It was over the steak Diane that I unloaded my scheme. I told her I had come from a test tube, that I was the result of a government experiment that had gone terribly, terribly wrong. When the government realized that they'd failed, they put me up for adoption, and this nice Irish family from South Woburn adopted me. I grew up in a wonderful middle-class home, but that didn't keep me from going astray. I told her that I was suffering from mental lapses that resulted from longing to learn who my real parents were. After discovering that I came from a test tube, I decided to run aimlessly around the world until I died. I told her I was no good for her, that I'd only ruin her life."

Naturally, we were curious to learn whether his scheme succeeded in ridding himself of his haunt. "No," he lamented, "she ended up feeling sorry for me, and she continued to follow me around the boat until we docked three days later."

We gave our friend the name of the guy who sells the inflatable rafts, and told him we were sorry to hear that his vacation was such a horrendous experience.

Speaking of horrendous experiences, this brings us to dating services as a means of meeting members of the opposite sex. For the life of me, I've never been able to figure out why somebody would want to hire somebody else to pick out their dates. The ads for these services announce that they woman who won't stop haunting you, your only choices are to jump overboard or throw her overboard. In either case the consequences stink. But if you insist upon joining one of those clubs and going on one of those ocean cruises for upwardly mobile, socially active folks, I know a guy who'll give you a deal on an inflatable raft. They are cheap and they'll fit nicely inside an average-sized suitcase. No swinging single on an ocean cruise should be without one.

Take it from a buddy of ours. He just returned from one of those dreaded cruises and informed us that he didn't take along one of those inflatable rafts. He suffered dearly as a result. There's no telling how much damage has been done to his psyche. He caught up with us one day recently, and we offered him a cup of hot coffee, a chance to relax his trembling hands and the opportunity to tell his story.

Apparently he encountered this middle-aged woman who was on the prowl for a man, although it wasn't clear to our friend if this woman wanted the man for a lifetime or just the duration of their cruise to the Bahamas. "She just wouldn't leave me alone," our friend related. "It was O.K. in the beginning, but after about three nights I was starting to lose my mind. This ship was the size of a football field, and I couldn't find enough hiding places to stay away from this woman. She haunted me!"

And there are those infamous social clubs, organizations which are formed for the express purpose of meeting eligible bachelors and bachelorettes. These clubs usually go about their matchmaking schemes on big oceanliners and inside massive and ornately decorated hotel ballrooms. But after you strip away all the glitz, you're left with the same old sloppily dressed grown-up orphans you met at the phone line party at the Burlington Marriott. The social clubs are even worse, because if you get stuck 500 miles out to sea with some ugly

Without a Clue and Short takes

Without a Clue Starring Michael Caine, Ben Kingsley, Jeffrey Jones and Lysette Anthony. Directed by Thom Eberhardt. Produced by Marc Sturdivant. Written by Gary Murphy and Larry Strawther. Rated PG (profanity, some violence).

With Michael Caine starring in the hallowed role of Sherlock Holmes, no one thought that Without a Clue was going to be much like the sober black and white flicks starring the quintessential Holmes, Basil Rathbone. But no one expected the film to be so, well, so goofy.

There is one devilishly good twist in the film, and the leading players are marvelous. But as a whole, the disparate pieces don't meld into the classic comedy you would expect when you see that squirrel-like Ben Kingsley is playing Dr. Watson and beefy Caine is cast as Holmes. Ah, well, Kingsley anyway. Caine has been known to turn up in his share of howlers.

The twist in this Holmesian adventure is that there is no Holmes. It is Watson, the "Crime Doctor" who has been solving the cases Scotland Yard couldn't. But he began his sleuthing as a hobby, never meant it to interfere with the illustrious medical career he saw for himself. So, Watson invented Holmes in the stories he wrote for The Strand magazine. When Holmes became a paperback hero, Watson had to produce the real thing. So he hired has-been, or never-was, actor Reginald Kinncaid (Caine). Only Kinncaid is a womanizing, thick-headed drunk whom Watson can't bear to have around.

Of course, what this ultimately becomes is a buddy flick. As much as these two claim to detest one another, their protestations ring hollow when push comes to shove — which it does several times throughout the story.

Unfortunately, once you get past this rewriting of Arthur Conan Doyle's Holmes, the movie wears itself out. Caine and Kingsley are charming together. They twinkle, they play off each other, they appear to be having a wonderful time. And sometimes they really are funny. But the material is too weak to carry these men, and so the picture is on their backs. But you are only so good as your material, and in this case, one sometimes feels as if the Three Stooges scripted the fight scenes.

It's not that Holmes is too lofty a literary hero to be tackled. It's wonderful to see a Holmes who isn't a neurotic, morphine addict. But to see such buffoonery without the sharp English wit Doyle gave his character leaves us with the dull taste of mediocrity in our mouths.

Short Takes

Clara's Heart gives Whoopi Goldberg a chance to stretch herself dramatically, but at the expense of a paying public. She's not bad as a Jamaican Mary Poppins, but the movie is abrasive and suffers from embarrassingly inept direction and dialogue. Rated PG-13.

Bat 21 is an action/adventure story set in Vietnam that differs from others of that ilk in that we only see a small slice of the war and not through the eyes of a hero or permanently scarred kid, but through the eyes of a veteran, played convincingly by Gene Hackman. This is a buddy story of sorts, with Danny Glover partnering Hackman, that could have been set anywhere and still be entertaining. That it was set in Nam gives it another layer, something for us to think about, but it never gets in the way of the entertainment. Rated R.

Things Change is a wonderfully quirky, low-key comedy written and directed by David Mamet and played out with supreme subtlety by Don Ameche and Joe Mantegna. Ameche is a cobbler set up by the mob, and Mantegna is the soft-hearted gangster who takes a liking to the old guy and brings him along to Lake Tahoe for one last weekend of blissful excess. A fun picture with a few twists you won't be able to second guess. Rated PG.

Mystic Pizza tells the tale of three young women who sling pizza in Mystic, Connecticut and the last summer they spend together before setting out after adult pursuits. It's not badly done, but there's nothing particularly new here, and it is much too draggy. The one bright spot comes via Julia Roberts, a magnetic young actress. Rated R.

Alien Nation is an enthralling, believable and scary sci-fi flick that incorporates aliens into our society. But a few years after a spaceship crashes and its inhabitants allowed to stay, a police officer, James Caan, stumbles onto a secret these humanoid creatures harbor. Together with his partner, an alien played by Mandy Patinkin, he tries to keep the secret just that. All the elements work, and there are a few decent scares by the end. Rated R.

The Accused is a story similar to the Big Dan rape case in New Bedford a few years ago, only in this version the victim is raped on a pinball machine, not a pool table. Jodie Foster is stupendous as the victim, a tough woman whose outer shell harbors a vulnerability she can't keep from leaking out. The movie, unfortunately, follows all the guidelines of a made-for-TV flick and also stars Kelly McGillis, who still cannot act. Rated R.

Punchline stars Tom Hanks as a screwed-up comic who happens to be very funny, and Sally Field as a housewife comic aching to be funny, but isn't. Hanks is a marvel in this. He's rotten, selfish, insecure, yet knows how to use his talent to his best advantage. But the flick turns into a vehicle for Field, who produced it, and her performance can't hold a candle to his. Rated R.

Nature facts

A SECOND CROP — Arizona farmers are finding that raising fish in irrigation water is a profitable way to get the most out of a valuable resource. Not only does aquaculture produce a second cash crop from the water used, but fish wastes also provide a natural source of fertilizer. International Wildlife magazine reports that catfish and trout are popular among fish farmers, but tilapia is also becoming a favorite. This hearty fish tolerates extremely warm temperatures, which makes it ideally suited to Arizona's geothermal waters.

Finally, a weight loss program that makes you feel like more of a person. Not less.

In most diets, all you lose is a little self-confidence. It's easy to see why: only 5-10% of those who undertake conventional diets lose 40 pounds. And, with very few exceptions, dieters regain the weight they have lost. Discouraging? You bet it is. That's why the doctors who developed The OPTIFAST Program took a totally different approach. A caring, supportive approach combining a nutritionally complete diet supplement, dietary counseling, behavior modification and group support. And we don't stop there. The OPTIFAST Program includes close and continuing medical supervision.

We treat the whole person—so you feel like more of a person. Best of all, the chances for sustained weight loss are now in your favor. 200,000 people have participated in The OPTIFAST Program of weight loss. Studies have shown that up to 80% of OPTIFAST treated patients may lose a minimum of 40 pounds. In patients who lose more than this amount, the average loss is 85 pounds!

But even more encouraging is the fact that in some people, long-term weight maintenance—the most important part of obesity treatment—is accomplished in The OPTIFAST Program. There's more to The OPTIFAST Program because our patients expect to lose more than a few pounds. If you are more than 30% or 50 pounds overweight, please call 729-9042 and receive details about The OPTIFAST Program.
